9 DIE IN CRASH OF HUGE PLANE AT WORLD FAIR

Sightseeing Craft Falls 600 Feet and Explodes as Throngs Watch.

Chicago, June 11 (A.P.).—Nine persons—seven of them going skyward as passengers on a sight seeing trip from the World's Fair—met death today in the flaming wreckage of a giant amphibian airplane in suburban Glenview.

The twin-motored plane Northern Light, one wing crumpled as it fought sudden heavy winds, plunged 600 feet to the ground and burrowed into a freshly plowed field. An explosion of gasoline shot flames 100 feet into the air and enveloped the twisted wreckage in fire.

The identified dead:

Capt. Carl V. Vickery, 36, pilot, Chicago.

Harry Jacobs, 33, aviation mechanic, Wheeling, Ill.

Edward M. Fay, Chicago.

Passenger List Not Kept.

Tentatively identified as victims from cards and papers found by investigating officials were Joseph George Robinson and his wife, Edith, New York. Another of the victims was believed also to be a New Yorker when investigators found a motor bus line ticket dated June 7 in the clothing of an unidentified man.

Cards found in purses of two other victims bore the names Miss Elizabeth Bean, Bronxville, N. Y., evidently a student at Sarah Lawrence College, and Mrs. Gail Nall (or Nale), of Missoula, Mont.

No list of the passengers was available at the amphibian ramp at the fair. Duncan Forbes, attache of the ramp from which the Northern Light took off for 20-minute tours, said no record was kept because of the short duration of the flight.

Firemen Are Helpless.

Hodges and others at the fair terminal said they were of the opinion the amphibian carried eight passengers in addition to the pilot and mechanic. The wreckage was searched thoroughly and only nine bodies were found.

The bodies all were burned beyond recognition. One was tossed several feet from the wreckage and the others were charred in the roaring flames. Firemen rushing to the scene of the crash were unable to overcome the blaze in time to save anyone. Authorities said establishing identities of the dead would be difficult, perhaps requiring several days in some cases. Hodges said it was probable several of the unidentified passengers were from out of the city.

The crash occurred as Vickery, a World War airman and pilot with 6,000 hours flying to his credit, headed for Curtiss-Reynolds Airport after an unsuccessful attempt to land at the fair ground ramps. The weather, suddenly equally, kicked up waves. Vick-

Man Shoots Girl Who Refused Ride

Rome, N. Y., June 11 (A.P.).—Because she refused to go for a ride with him, William "Benny" Lado, 46, gasoline station proprietor and father of six children, today shot and probably fatally wounded Helen Kubasik, 18, and then killed himself.

Lado shot the girl after he had driven to her home and invited her to go riding. Two of her girl friends were in the yard with her when she was shot. Lado fired five bullets into her body.

He then drove to his own home a mile away, went to the cellar and shot himself through the head. He died at a hospital a few minutes later. Physicians said Miss Kubasik was not expected to live.

Zoo Wildcat Killed by "Owner" in Battle

Animal's Death by Hand Follows Jolly Ride With Doctor.

There's a murder story at the Zoo.

A wildcat was kidnaped (or rather catnaped) from its cage and strangled in the bare hands of Dr. Aubrey Miller, 3406 Thirteenth street northwest, it is alleged.

The choice of any animal or reptile in the Zoo, Dr. Miller says, was offered to him by a keeper during a social session near the monkey house.

And so help me hat if Dr. Miller didn't pick himself the wildcat as a pet. But the cat had other ideas, which it sought to impress with its claws, on Dr. Miller's hands and face.

Conviviality was the watchword, Dr. Miller said, in this little social session with the keeper. The warmth of sociability tinged this little party. Friendship was born.

As twilight came the keeper offered him his choice of anything his heart desired, Dr. Miller said. He pondered the offer. There were elephants, zebras, and even the king cobra, but he finally settled his choice on the funny little wildcat, fresh from the tropics.

As Dr. Miller left the Zoo with his hands around the 15-pound "kitten," he was stopped by Park Policeman C. B. Gooding, who asked him "What the heck" and "where ya goin'?"

"I am going to perform an operation on the cat," he said, with a professional air. "Dr. Mann asked me to," so the police report.

Going out of the park, Policeman L. A. Tabinski saw a driver who was doing nearly everything with one hand. So he stopped the car and saw Dr. Miller with one hand gripped around the cat's Adam's apple.

So Tabinski asked "What the heck?" and "Where ya goin'?" To which Dr. Miller replied, "Dr. Mann gave him to me," police again are quoted.

Near Eighteenth street and Columbia road, startled pedestrians say they saw the wild cat stuck out of a window, clasped in the hand of the driver who was shouting to them: "How'm ah doin', Hey, Hey!"

Meanwhile Policemen Tabinski and Gooding got busy. They learned from Dr. Mann that no animal had been given away, and particularly no wild cats. So they started tracing the number of the automobile and finally wound up in the Tenth Precinct Station.

"Say," queried the desk man, "you haven't lost any wild cats over at the Zoo?"

"And how! Where is it?"

So they tiptoed back to a cell and there was the wild cat dead in the same cell with Dr. Miller.

What Dr. Miller had forgotten was that this particular cat was not given

SPANISH FLIERS HOP 4,500 MILES TO CUBA

Storm Threats Keep Pair From Reaching Their Goal, Havana.

Camaguey, Cuba, June 11 (A.P.).—Successfully completing their 4,500-mile Spain-to-Cuba nonstop flight, Capt. Mariano Barberan and Lieut. Joaquin Collar, Spanish army fliers, landed at this midisland city this afternoon at 3:35 o'clock (E. S. T.).

On account of unfavorable weather conditions to the west, the two aviators announced that they would spend the night here before going on to Havana, which city they had hoped to reach before their airplane, Cuatro Vientos, descended on its transocean flight.

Tired but happy after their long air journey, which they said was made under the most favorable weather auspices, the two fliers went to a hotel.

Barberan and Collar said they did not know when they would continue

4 in Fleeing Auto Sought as Killers

Albion, N. Y., June 11 (A.P.).—An automobile containing two men and two women, one of whom fired shots which killed one man and wounded another early this morning, was being sought by police of western New York, today. The man killed was Francis McAllinger, 42, proprietor of a gasoline station in Murray, Orleans County. He was shot while attempting to halt the car as it began to pull away after the driver had refused to pay for 7 gallons of gasoline.

John J. Irvine, jr., Albion, a bystander at the station, was shot by the gunmen after he had ridden the spare tire of the automobile more than a mile in an effort to trail the autoists.

Cleveland Man Killed; Pilot Is Hurt in Crash

Cleveland, June 11 (A.P.).—John Myello, aged 24, was killed and Richard C. Foster, 25, a private pilot, was injured late today when Foster's plane went into a spin and crashed near Cleveland airport. Myello was a passenger.

Foster, who suffered a fractured jaw and cuts, said he had put his ship into a glide, but believed it was "not steep enough." He was flying at about 3,000 feet before sighting the airport, and decided to shut off his motor and glide in, Foster said. He was unable to estimate the altitude at which the spin started.

Former Representative From Georgia Is Dead

Newnan, Ga., June 11 (A.P.).—Former Representative William Carter Wright, who served the Fourth Georgia District in Congress from 1918 until 1933, died in a hospital here today after an illness of several weeks. He was 67 years old.

He was elected to the Sixty-fifth Congress in January, 1918, to fill the unexpired term of Representative William C. Adamson and was reelected each term until he voluntarily retired in March of this year.

Debuchi to Stay in U. S. As Envoy, Say Officials

Tokyo, (Monday) June 12 (A.P.).—The foreign office issued a statement today declaring the Government has no present intention of replacing Ambassador Katsuji Debuchi at Washington.

Japanese newspapers said Saturday Foreign Minister Yasyua Uchida had decided to recall him and mentioned Kojiro Matsukata, a business leader, and Yosuke Matsuoka, former League of Nations envoy, as prospective successor.

Delay in Hop

Unexplained by Mattern at End of 1,400-Mile Trip to Siberian Town.

Moscow, June 11 (A.P.).—Jimmie Mattern, making the first solo flight around the world, arrived early today at Khabarovsk, Siberia, jumping-off point for the transpacific leg of his journey, after being lost and forced to land about 100 miles north of that city.

He landed at Khabarovsk at 3:20 a. m., Moscow time (7:20 p. m., Saturday, Eastern standard time). Latest advices said he was taken to a hotel, where he fell asleep immediately and officials had no opportunity to question him as to when he inteneded to take off for home.

At that time he was three days behind the pace set by Wiley Post and

FRENCH ASK REVISION OF NAVAL LIMITATION

Demand to Geneva Aims to Lift Ban on Submarines, Cruisers and Destroyers.

Geneva, June 11 (A.P.).—In a sentence of five words, "The convention must be general," France served notice to the world today that the projected disarmament treaty must deal with naval questions as well as with the army and the air, because France considers the various arms interdependent.

(The British disarmament plan now under consideration by the Geneva conference proposes to embody the results of the Washington and London naval treaties in the general convention.)

The American and Japanese delegates interpret the French declaration, which was filed with the conference today, to mean that the three-

Starving Recluse, Wealthy, Expires

Seattle, June 11 (A.P.).—Mrs. Frances Jackson, 88, well-to-do recluse known as the "old lady of the lamps," died at Seattle Hospital today from the effects of an injury received in a fall and malnutrition.

Wife of a former pioneer steamship captain on Puget Sound, she was found living in poverty several years ago with $90,000 in bonds cached around her humble dwelling. A few weeks ago neighbors had her taken to a hospital when they learned she had injured herself in a fall. Physicians endeavored to build up her strength, weakened by long years of voluntary privation.

She became known as the "old lady of the lamps" because she spurned the use of electricity or gas in lighting her house, using old-fashioned kerosene lamps.

Laundryman Shot In Front of Home

Chicago, June 11 (A.P.).—George Navigado, 37, a former superintendent of drivers for the Illinois Laundry Co., was shot to death early today in front of his home.

A small coupe cruised past just after Navigado had parked his car and was entering the front door of his house. Two blasts from a shotgun were fired by a man standing on the running board of the coupe and Navigado fell. Two neighbors who witnessed the shooting found him dead. The coupe sped away.

Mrs. Navigado told police her husband had been engaged in a small real estate business recently, and that he left the laundry's employ a year ago. She could ascribe no motive for the slaying.

SWIMMER DROWNS IN RESCUE ATTEMPT

Woman Is Saved by Others in Party From Rapids Below Chain Bridge.

Attempting to rescue a young woman member of his swimming party yesterday, Adrian Kuhn, 31, of 217 G street northwest, was drowned in the rapids below Chain Bridge.

Kuhn was struggling to reach Mrs. Elizabeth Hunter, 28, of 125 E street northwest, who, unable to swim, had disappeared beneath the water when the tire inner tube she was using as a support floated out of reach.

John Draley, of the G street address, reached Mrs. Hunter and brought her to shore. She was taken to Emergency Hospital for treatment.

Kuhn's body was recovered soon after, as it floated down the river, but attempts to revive him were unsuccessful. Mrs. Hunter, whose husband died several months ago, joined the swimming party to forget her grief.

She was warned against swimming in the river by friends, who pointed out the danger of the Potomac rapids. Both Draley and Mrs. Hunter were treated at the hospital, but were not considered in a serious condition.

Coast Playwright Seeks Absent Wife

Los Angeles, June 11 (A.P.).—Fearing his wife, Mary Dorne, may be the victim of foul play or some mental disorder, Eugene Walter, playwright, asked police today to search for the comely 26-year-old actress. Walter said he had left his wife in downtown Los Angeles Saturday at 1 p. m., and she told him she would return home after shopping. She had not returned late today, however.

Walter, author of many plays and films, including "The Easiest Way," "The Wolf," and other successes, said his wife apparently was in perfect health, mentally and physically, and that no domestic difficulties existed in their home.

"She has either lost consciousness of her identity and whereabouts or has been victimized by someone," he said.

MORGAN FIRM DIRECTORS OF 89 COMPANIES

Partners Are on Boards Controlling Assets of $20,000,000,000.

(Copyright, 1933, by the Associated Press.)

Senate investigators of J. P. Morgan & Co. yesterday disclosed evidence that members of that huge banking firm are directors of 89 corporations and banks with total assets of more than $20,000,000,000.

The statistics, gathered to show the extent of the firm's influence and placed in evidence at the closing of the hearing Friday, but just made available for publication, probably will be used by those members of the investigating committee who plan legislation to limit the concentration of power through financial channels.

Praises Roosevelt Plan.

The same batch of evidence contained a consolidated list of the selected clients who were sold stock by Morgan & Co. from 1927 to 1929 at bargain prices, showing a total of 700 individuals and corporations.

At the same time the committee made public a statement put into the record by Russell C. Leffingwell, Morgan partner, in which he lauded the program of President Roosevelt to arrest deflation and bring about a rise in commodity prices.

Leffingwell, an Assistant Secretary of the Treasury during the Wilson administration, in discussing tendencies of the time, said the growth of corporate enterprise was drying up private initiative and making a Nation of hired men."

Corporate Boards Traced.

Elaborate charts showing the extent of directorships held in banks and corporations by Morgan partners were submitted by Ferdinand Pecora, committee counsel.

Tracing the "corporate relationship of J. P. Morgan & Co.," they showed that partners of the firm and its Philadelphia affiliate, Drexel & Co., serve as directors of 89 corporations and banks which have 537 other directors.

These "nonpartisan directors" serve on the boards of 2,305 other companies, the tables showed.

"The list of nonpartisan directors," the introduction to the charts said, "discloses that 32 appear on the four 'selected lists' of J. P. Morgan & Co.,

Maryland Crash Kills Capital Man

Prince Frederick, Md., June 11 (A.P.).—Patrick McGowne, 21, of 1214 North Capitol street, Washington, was killed today when the automobile which he was driving skidded and turned over on the southern Maryland boulevard, in Calvert County, near here.

Mr. McGowne was en route to North Beach, Md., with a party of friends when the accident occurred. The other passengers in the car escaped with minor injuries.

The body was brought to the Calvert County Hospital here where the man was pronounced dead.

4 Drown in Michigan Lake As Sudden Storm Strikes

Waters Searched for Undetermined Number of Missing After Squall; Visitors' Cottages Checked by Officials.

Houghton Lake Village, Mich., June 11 (A.P.).—Four persons were drowned and an undetermined number were reported missing tonight following a violent windstorm which swept Houghton Lake, late this afternoon. Striking unexpectedly while scores of small boats containing fishermen dotted the surface of the lake, the wind whipped the waters into a turmoil. Fourteen overturned boats drifted ashore after the waves subsided.

The known dead are:

Robert Walcott, 30, of Charlotte; John Townsend, 38, of Alma; Francis Townsend, 12, his son; Mrs. Florence L. Labuda, 47, Saginaw. John Townsend's body was recovered.

Search of the waters of the lake was started immediately after the storm subsided. Boat liverymen and cottagers said that virtually every livery and privately owned boat was on the lake at the time of the storm. There was no way of determining immediately how many persons might have been drowned.

The storm subsided as quickly as it had arisen and caused no serious damage to cottages around the lake.

Houghton Lake, situated in the center of Roscommon County, is one of the largest inland bodies of water in Michigan.

Witnesses said that the storm whipped up waterspouts more than 20 feet high. Several persons escaped death by clinging to their overturned boats until the storm subsided. Among those rescued were Sheriff Leonard V. Scheich, of Saginaw; James Trew, deputy sheriff, Saginaw, and Robert Chalmers, Saginaw County circuit court officer. The men were picked up two hours later by a boat, which remained upright during the storm.

Roscommon County officers started an immediate check of cottages in the neighborhood to determine the number of missing.

It was expected that the death list would be increased.

Sweeping on from the lake region the storm later struck the village of West Branch in neighboring Ogemaw County, damaging stores and homes but causing no injuries. A violent windstorm, meanwhile, swept the waters of Tawas Bay on Lake Huron, damaging homes in Tawas City, but causing no injuries.

Congress Will Speed Program for Closing Today or Tomorrow

Fight Will Be Waged for More Liberal Veterans' Aid.

Progressives Group to Make Determined Stand on Issue.

(Associated Press.)

A group of Republican Progressives, small in number but weighty in influence, made ready yesterday to take a final fling at the House-Roosevelt compromise on the veterans' cut issue.

Determined to stand out as long as parliamentary conditions permit, fighting for more liberal treatment of the former service men, especially Spanish War survivors, leaders of this little band of irreconcilables announced they expected to receive considerable support from the Democratic side.

The independent offices appropriation bill, sent to conference late Saturday night after three roll calls in the House had gained approval of the Roosevelt compromise it embodied, is expected to be reported out to the Senate today. If debate is not too long delayed on other legislation it will come up for floor consideration before the day is out.

Fight Is Imminent.

Senators Cutting (Republican), New Mexico, and La Follette (Republican), Wisconsin, will lead the fight against the report. Probably they will be aided by Senator Long, of Louisiana, on the Democratic side, as well as by a few others.

Majority leaders, however, were confident yesterday the report would be approved.

Under the compromise, no service-connected compensation would be reduced more than 25 per cent, with the average reduction about 18 per cent.

"Under this regulation," a White House statement said, "the service-connected Spanish-American War veterans and some of the peace-time veterans will receive payments substantially in excess of those which they were receiving prior to the passage of the economy act."

May Reduce Pensioners.

Opponents of the compromise said yesterday this appeared on its face to be a concession, but that in reality its effect would be to throw off the pension rolls hundreds of Spanish-American War veterans because of their inability at this late date to prove their injuries were service-connected.

On the other hand, President Roosevelt in a letter to the House steering committee, promised to provide by regulation for these veterans over 55 years old.

Under his new regulations, too, Spanish War veterans over 62 who have served 90 days or more, and regardless of the origin of their in-

Thieves Take 8,000 Lire From Vatican

Vatican City, June 11 (U.P.).—Thieves broke into the bank in the basement of the basilica of St. Peter's Cathedral late yesterday and escaped with 8,000 lire (a little over $500), on hand for salaries to cathedral lay workers.

They either overlooked or purposely left untouched 20,000 lire in foreign silver coins in the same desk, probably fearing to run the risk of exchanging them for Italian money. The coins were dropped by foreign pilgrims in various alms boxes in the basilica.

Pope Pius XI, hearing of the robbery, directed that the workers be paid immediately through funds from the Vatican's central treasury.

Austro-Hungarian Army Officers Seized as Spies

Belgrade, Jugoslavia, June 11 (A.P.).—Four former officers of the Austro-Hungarian army and two merchants of Ragusa were put in jail today in an alleged espionage plot.

A communique reported that Lieut. Col. Mitsitch, alleged ringleader, confessed that he is in the pay of two neighboring countries.

31-Ton Air "Warship" Built by Great Britain

London, June 11 (U.P.).—A 31-ton, 6-motored flying boat described as a "flying warship" has been added to Great Britain's air force, it was revealed today.

It has undergone durability tests. The ship is one of the largest flying boats in the world. It is of all-metal construction and carries a crew of 10.

Bills Still Awaiting Action From Congress

(Associated Press.)

Surveying the list of major bills jammed in Congress on the eve of resumption of the drive for adjournment, majority leaders last night held hopes that the following measures would be sent to the White House:

The industrial recovery-public works bill, awaiting only Senate adoption of the House-approved conference report.

The independent offices bill, carrying the dynamite-filled veterans' compensation cuts, now in conference between the Senate and House.

The $3,500,000,000 fourth deficiency appropriation bill, passed by the House and awaiting Senate action.

The Hawaiian governorship bill, passed by the House, but not so

BLOC SEEKS RETURN TO GOLD STANDARD

France Leads Movement Toward Restoration of Old Money Basis.

London, June 11 (A.P.).—A continental European bloc to attempt to force the United States and Great Britain to return to the gold standard loomed as a possibility tonight on the eve of the opening of the world economic conference.

Six other countries were ready to march behind firm French leadership to get the dollar and the pound stabilized and oppose discussions of tariffs, higher prices, silver and trade agreements until the world's two principal currencies were given a fixed value in gold.

The spokesmen of Germany, Italy, Poland, Jugoslavia, Roumania, Czechoslovakia and France have agreed that stabilization is essential before the London meetings can usefully proceed to deliberations on other subjects.

The interests of these countries are sharply divided on other questions but upon currency stabilization their interests are identical, a spokesman for the bloc said.

Premier Edouard Daladier, dressed as a French schoolmaster—a title he likes—arrived in London tonight with Georges Bonnet, his finance minister, to head a strong delegation on which monetary experts predominate.

The premier jokingly said that English money confused him, asserting that he could not tell one piece from another.

M. Daladier is scheduled to return to Paris Wednesday after placing France at the head of the stabilization movement by an address before a plenary session of the conference.

Clement Moret, governor of the Bank of France and Charles Parnier, vice governor, were awaiting the premier here for an exchange of views before the opening session tomorrow.

Daladier and Bonnet are watching closely reports of Anglo-American war debt negotiations, a French spokesman said, but all indications are that France will flatly default a second time on her payments June 15.

Heimwehr's Leader Is Shot by Assassins

Innsbruck, Austria, June 11 (A.P.).—An attempt to assassinate Richard Steidle, leader of the Tyrolese Heimwehr, was made tonight by unidentified men in an automobile. Herr Steidle was wounded in the forearm by one bullet.

The assailants fired at Steidle's automobile as the Heimwehr chief was returning to his home here. After firing they fled.

Steidle's Heimwehr organization recently has been proceeding in sharp opposition to both the Nazis and the Socialists in the Tyrol. The leader himself was mentioned recently as a candidate for appointment as Federal commissioner at Vienna.

Poland Bans Imports Of Some U. S. Goods

Warsaw, June 11 (A.P.).—The Polish government today prohibited importation until October 30 of a list of products from the United States, Argentine, South Africa and Australia, such as oil seed, wool, tanning, chemical products, raw animal fat, solid fats, linen and cloth and shoewear.

Special permits for importation will be issued upon the basis of compensatory trade. The prohibition will be effective until the new Polish customs tariff is fixed October 10.

Roosevelt Assured by Leaders of Prompt Action on Bills.

Emergency Program Is First Slated to Be Considered.

(Associated Press.)

Democratic congressional leaders informed President Roosevelt last night they would complete his emergency program in time for an adjournment today or tomorrow.

Frustrated in their spirited drive for an adjournment Saturday night by an incipient revolt resulting from the last-minute receipt of the President's partial Government reorganization plan, the party chieftains were confident that week-end study of this had allayed major opposition to it.

Chairman Harrison, of the Senate Finance Committee, told newspapermen as he left the White House he would center the attention of the Senate the first thing today upon the gigantic public works-industrial supervision conference report.

Offices Bill Is Next

He declared himself confident of its passage.

Senator Byrnes (Democrat), South Carolina, said he would follow with the conference report of the independent offices bill, containing the disputed veterans' compensation clause.

The leaders then will seek to put through the $3,500,000,000 appropriation measure to put into action the recovery program.

"We can get away by tomorrow night," said Senator Byrnes.

Vice President Garner, Speaker Rainey, Representative Byrnes of Tennessee, the Democratic floor leader, and Senators Harrison and Byrnes along with Secretary Roper were in the group that called at the White House for what was described as an informal gathering.

Bank Reforms Sought

There was apparently no summons by President Roosevelt nor any change in his plans. He is leaving his program in the hands of the party leaders and they say it will go through promptly.

No decision was reached last night by the congressional leaders on the controversial banking reform bill which is still in conference by the Senate and House. A last-minute effort to reach an agreement upon it will be made today.

An immediate result of the failure to adjourn Saturday night was to instill new life into measures thought lost for the session.

INTEREST CHARGES REDUCED BY R.F.C.

Railroads Given 5 Per Cent Rate and Closed Banks 4 in Recovery Step.

(Associated Press.)

The Reconstruction Finance Corporation yesterday made another contribution to the administration effort to affect business recovery, reducing its interest charges one-half of 1 per cent and loosening the dividend requirement on preferred stock in banks.

The interest rate on all loans except to railroads and closed banks was fixed at 4½ per cent and the dividend requirement on bank preferred stock at 5 per cent. The rate for closed banks is 4 per cent and railroads 5 per cent.

The 4½ per cent rate brings the charges on self-liquidating loans down to the figure contended for by Senator Wagner (Democrat), New York, and New York officials seeking to borrow money for great construction projects in that State. The 4½ per cent rate applies for the first five years of the life of the loans.

Jesse H. Jones, chairman of the corporation, in announcing the move, said that before gaining any reduction in interest rates all borrowers must adjust salaries, fees ad operating expenses "in keeping with the conditions that have made it necessary for them to borrow from the corporation and acceptable to the corporation."

Dividend Rule Lowered.

The dividend requirement of banks selling the corporation preferred stock was lowered in an effort to induce more banks to issue this form of stock and strengthen their cash situation.

The text of the corporation statement issued by Chairman Jones follows:

"The directors of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation have authorized another reduction of one-half of 1 per cent in interest rates and also a reduction to 5 per cent, for the first five years, of the dividend rate on preferred stock in banks.

"A condition precedent to the reduction in interest rates, is that the banks, insurance companies, mortgage companies, &c., shall pass the interest reduction along to their borrowers, and that all borrowing corporations, including railroads, shall, if they have not already done so, adjust their salaries fees, and operating expenses in keeping with the conditions that have made it necessary for them to borrow from the corporation, and in a manner acceptable to the corporation.

"This reduction will give the railroads a rate of 5 per cent, and all other borrowers, except closed banks, a rate of 4½ per cent. Closed banks will get a rate of 4 per cent.

Considering Further Slash.

"The directors are also considering a further reduction of one-half of 1 per cent to railroads which pay their loans within a period of two or three years. This extra reduction, if made, would be at the time of payment of the indebtedness to the Reconstruction Finance Corporation.

"The principal purpose in reducing the dividend rates on preferred stock to banks is to encourage them to strengthen their capital structure where desirable but not actually necessary. A great many banks have indicated that they would be willing to issue preferred stock and sell it to the R. F. C. if the dividend rate was lower.

"The corporation having heretofore established a rate of 6 per cent, it is believed by the directors that a 5 per cent rate on preferred stock to banks will cause many of them to avail themselves of the opportunity to increase their capital and be in a better position to extend credit and further aid in getting business started on a normal basis.

"To enable the corporation to make this interest reduction, Secretary Woodin has agreed to reduce the interest charge to the corporation by the Treasury from 3½ to 3 per cent.

"Interest reductions will be adjusted to all borrowers regardless of the rate that the notes bear, and the directors have no doubt but that all borrowers will readily meet the conditions imposed, as was recently the case when the Southern Pacific Railroad reduced salaries, attorneys' fees, &c., on receiving a large loan."

Cows to Mow School Lawns During Summer

Tacoma, Wash., June 11 (A.P.).—Cows will be used instead of lawn mowers on the Stadium High School grounds here this summer.

juries, will receive boosts in their compensation from $6 to $15 a month, and in the case of either Spanish or World War veterans permanently and totally disabled, the rates also will be raised.

Compensation of veterans presumed to be disabled as a result of service would be reduced by 25 per cent, but would remain on the rolls until October 31, unless meanwhile their injuries were found to be nonservice connected.

Boards of review are to be set up by the President to review these cases with new personnel put on the boards to receive any doubt in favor of the veteran.

MAN STABS BROTHER AND SELF TO DEATH

Woman Wounded as Merchant Runs Amuck in Richmond, Va., Meat Store.

Richmond, Va., June 11 (A.P.).—After hacking his brother to death with a meat knife and stabbing his sister-in-law with the same instrument, Jacob Glick committed suicide today as police sought to capture him.

A nephew said Glick was sent to the State Hospital at Williamsburg for observation several weeks ago, but was dismissed after an examination.

Hospital authorities said he was furloughed after remaining at the institution ten days.

Glick, after killing his brother, Solomon, turned on the latter's wife, stabbing her in the chest.

Neighbors who ran into the combination store and dwelling in answer to the woman's screams, were met with a barrage of butcher knives and a meat cleaver.

Twenty minutes later, as police stood outside the door, Glick slashed his throat and left arm. He then climbed to the second floor of the building and sat upon a window sill, from which he toppled, landing at the feet of horrified spectators.

A young police officer tried to catch the body as it fell.

Several neighbors who had feared that Solomon Glick's five children were in the building with the demented man had rushed to the scene with guns when the killer appeared on the window sill. It was later learned that the children were playing tennis on a community house court nearby.

City Coroner Whitfield said that Solomon Glick was stabbed through the lungs. He was found in a small kitchen at the rear of the store.

Hospital attendants said that Mrs. Glick would recover.

Mental Patient Kills Wife and Her Father

New York, June 11 (A.P.).—Gustave Wagner, 57, a Psychopathic Hospital patient, today shot and killed his wife and her father, Dr. George Fisher, in their Bronx apartment. He had been permitted to go home for the week-end.

Wagner told police he tried to shoot himself, but the hammer fell on a discharged shell. He was taken to a hospital for observation.

power London agreement, which limits cruisers, destroyers and submarines, must be revised at Geneva before any general arms accord can be signed.

It may mean also, in the opinion of some authorities, that the French will insist on revision of the Washington treaty, which limits battleships and aircraft carriers.

The French delegation, questioned on the matter, confirmed that the declaration implies revision of the London accord, but without affecting the United States, Great Britain and Japan until 1936, when the treaty expires, unless the signatories agree otherwise.

3 Boys Arrested In Robbery Series

A bullet whizzing past a man's ear yesterday led Takoma Park police to a large cache of a variety of stolen goods and the subsequent arrest of three youths.

An unidentified colored man complained at the police station that a bullet had just missed his ear as he was walking down an alley. Policeman Al Thomas went to the scene and reprimanded James Robertson and Richard Robertson, of 54 Blair avenue. Through a door standing ajar, he said he saw a large quantity of alleged stolen merchandise.

During questioning the boys implicated Hugh Right, 16, of Park avenue. He was charged with larceny in Montgomery County and released on $500 bond.

The two Robertson boys each were held on two charges of larceny. They were released on bonds of $500 for each charge.

PARTIAL PAYMENTS ON DEBTS STUDIED

Question of Legality of U. S. Accepting Leads to Pondering Here.

(Associated Press.)

A big question mark as to the legality of accepting partial payments on Thursday's war debt installments yesterday arose before the administration, and, despite the Sabbath holiday, aids to President Roosevelt studied the situation in the light of a debt pay day drawing inexorably nearer.

As Congress, in spite of strongest administration efforts, ran its session beyond the starting time for the London Economic Conference, indications were noted here that Great Britain, Italy and other debtor nations might follow the partial payment course.

The question being studied minutely was whether acceptance by the United States of only part of the sums due would constitute tacit approval of nonpayment of the remainder.

Should the final decision be that the administration must do nothing that could be construed as condoning a default in whole or in part, the possibility stood out that if part payments should be offered the Washington Government might feel compelled to refuse them.

Roosevelt Might Accept.

However, Mr. Roosevelt has stood consistently for payment of the debts until Congress approves revision of the funding agreements, and the impression has spread that the ultimate decision would be to accept whatever payment is proffered.

Awaiting the decision to be reached by the British cabinet today, officials wondered how the debt situation and the world economic conference, beginning today, would be affected by the fact that Congress will be in session several days longer.

Congress has gone emphatically on record against any revision or cancellation of the debts, and determined proponents of exacting payment have threatened to bring the explosive debt issue into debate.

Senator Robinson (Republican), Indiana, raised the debt question only a short time ago, and received reassurances from Robinson, of Arkansas, the Democratic leader, that President Roosevelt was carrying out the expressed will of Congress.

Tentative Proposal Made.

If, as indicated, Congress adjourns within a few days, the effect upon the economic parley of its remaining in session for that length of time was regarded as negligible, since it will be a week or more before the parley settles down to negotiations on the vital problems of world trade.

Great Britain apparently has made the Washington Government a tentative proposal on the debts. At any rate, Sir Ronald Lindsay, the British ambassador, gave President Roosevelt orally a communication from his government. After Mr. Roosevelt talked it over with his advisors, the Briton called upon Acting Secretary Phillips at the State Department to receive an answer.

The total debt payments due Thursday aggregate $144,000,000. Of this, Great Britain will owe $75,000,000, France $40,000,000 and Italy $13,000,000.

WILDCAT IS KILLED AND DOCTOR HELD

to roaming around in the middle of the night. It had had military training. It was retired from the Marine Corps.

Its boss, a marine sergeant, brought it from Nicaragua. But the cat got a bad dose of the rickets and the marine sergeant gave the cat to Dr. William M. Mann, director of the Zoo. The cat was being fed cod liver oil and getting lots of sunshine to cure it.

So when it came time for bed and cod liver oil, the cat decided to go home. Then Dr. Miller and the cat came to the parting of the ways, and the cat started to perform a crude operation on Dr. Miller's face and hands.

Some time later, Dr. Miller walked into the office of Dr. E. C. Terry, 3217 Eleventh street northwest, looking as if he had gotten his hands caught in a meat chopper and had stuck his face into an electric fan while trying to break loose. But darned if he wasn't still holding the cat.

"Give the cat a drink of water!" said the solicitous benefactor of the "kitten." Then as Dr. Terry edged towards a telephone, Dr. Miller told of the terrific battle he had staged with this wildcat in the woods of Alexandria, mind you! Or so the police report.

Gosh! What a battle that was! And maybe you think, Dr. Miller didn't look the part.

Dr. Terry called police. But before they arrived the life of the cat was gone—all nine of 'em.

That's how the "kitten" and Dr. Miller happened to be in the same cell.

An inquest was held over the body last night in the apartment of Dr. Mann. The testimony of the officers was heard. "Death from strangulation" was Dr. Mann's verdict as the officers viewed the body of the wildcat on the floor.

But Dr. Mann wants to know whether the story of one of the keeper's giving out selections of leopards, panthers, &c., is true, and also whether any of the keepers were drinking. After all, in a flight of generosity, some one might be handing out the king cobra, or a nest of rattlers with a couple of copperheads thrown in.

Dr. Miller last night was being held for investigation.

Incidentally, some one got over the guard-rails at the Zoo the other day and got friendly with a bear. The bear took a healthy bite out of the intruder's hand, but the intruder has not been found.

Capital's Greek Colony Attends Marriage Fete

Washington's Greek population turned out en masse yesterday, when two of its members, Miss Demetra N. Caskonas and Michael N. Mantzouranis, were married in the Greek Orthodox Church of St. Constantine and Helen, Sixth and O streets southwest.

The Rev. Thomas Daniels officiated at the ceremonies. In a brief talk he stressed the sanctity of marriage as a religious institution. George Mantzouranis, brother of the bridegroom, also spoke. The bride was given in marriage by her father, Nicolas Caskonas. Following a brief wedding trip the couple plan to make their home in Washington.

TRIO FLY COLUMBIA ON GOOD-WILL TRIP

Capt. Boyd and Companions Take Off for Haiti on 2,471-Mile Flight.

New York, June 11 (A.P.).—The monoplane Columbia, 8-year-old veteran of two transatlantic flights, headed for Haiti tonight on a projected nonstop good-will journey of 2,471 miles.

Capt. J. Errol Boyd, who flew the silver ship to England in 1930, three years after Clarence Chamberlin piloted it to Germany, was at the controls when it took off from Floyd Bennett Field at 3:35 p. m.

Robert G. Lyon, a former Navy flier, accompanied the World War aviator as copilot, and H. P. Davis, once a Haitian newspaper man, went along as author-observer.

The trio hope to complete the flight in 24 hours, remain in Port-au-Prince two days, and then fly the plane back to New York. A stop will be made at Washington on the return trip.

Among the 5,000 persons who cheered as the Columbia glided down the shorter of the field's two runways were Bert Acosta, who with Chamberlin set a refueling record in the plane in 1927, and Charles B. Vincente, Haitian Consul General and a brother of the republic's president.

The ship was filled with 400 gallons of gasoline, the heaviest load it has carried, but it took to the air easily. Its route lay past Atlantic City, down the coast and thence to Havana. A police amphibian accompanied it for a few miles.

For food the fliers took only two broiled chickens, but they carried three beverages—two gallons of water, two quarts of coffee and a quart of lemon juice.

Miss Day Weds Walter E. Perry

Walter Early Perry, prominent Bethesda, Md., merchant, and Miss Willie Green Day, former executive director of the Montgomery County Social Service League, were married in Baltimore, Md., Saturday, according to an announcement yesterday by the mother of the bride, Mrs. Robert Joyner Day, of Virginia.

Both are well known and popular in the county. Miss Day's work as executive director of the league brought forth many commendations not only from county officials but from other social service experts. She resigned several months ago because of illness. Miss Day is a member of the rehabilitation committee for Montgomery County.

The couple will be at home at their residence on Old Georgetown road, Bethesda, Md., after July 1.

to Havana. They passed over Camaguey headed for the capital before landing, but turned back when threatening thunderstorms showed up in their course.

The Cuatro Vientos, an all-Spanish plane in which they made the crossing with almost methematical precision, came down gracefully at Camaguey's large airport which is utilized by army aviation planes and commercial craft of the National Aviation Co.

Barberan and Collar, who left the Tablada Airport, Seville, Spain, Saturday morning at 4:45 (11:45 p. m., Friday, Eastern standard time), were in the air 39 hours and 50 minutes, averaging therefore about 115 miles an hour.

They carried 1,500 gallons of gasoline, which was estimated to be enough for 44 to 48 hours flying.

MATTERN 18 HOURS ON HOP OVER SIBERIA

Harold Gatty in their 1931 flight around the world with no chance to challenge their record of eight days, 15 hours and 51 minutes. But they were held at Khabarovsk more than a day, which gave him an opportunity to establish a solo record comparing well with theirs.

Mattern started for Khabarovsk from Seloye, Siberia, more than 1,400 miles inland, at 1:50 a. m., Saturday, Moscow time (5:50 p. m., Friday, Eastern standard time). He passed over Rukhlovo at 9:15 a. m., Saturday, Moscow time. Rukhlovo is only 730 miles from Khabarovsk, but it was not learned until tonight that he stopped en route at Sofisk.

It was disclosed that he lost his way shortly after leaving Rukhlovo, mistaking the River Zea for the Amur. Attempting to reach Khabarovsk, he finally found Sofisk, about 100 miles north of his goal. It is up the Amur River from Khabarovsk.

The Texas aviator remained there long enough to ascertain his error before resuming his flight, which seemingly accounted for his delay in reaching Khabarovsk.

CONGRESS LEADERS RALLY TO ADJOURN

Emergency Program to Be Passed Before Close by Midweek.

Senate approval. More hope was held for the administration bill for the non-Territorial appointment of a Hawaiian governor.

Before a Senate committee was a final decision on municipal and corporate bankruptcy relief while much-discussed oil legislation had started through neither branch.

Nevertheless, rumblings of discontent rose from the Senate side of the Capitol. Republican Independents, Old Guard Republicans and a scattering of Democrats made no secret of their dissatisfaction over the course of affairs.

Uprising Believed Averted.

When plans for a sine-die adjournment were suddenly and dramatically abandoned close to midnight Saturday, with tempers drawn fine by the rush toward that goal, the discontent was centering upon the huge industrial recovery bill and the independent offices appropriations measure containing the controverted veterans' cuts.

Democratic chieftains appeared confident yesterday, however, that with the lull over the week-end any real uprising could be averted and plans for the session's end carried through on a delayed schedule.

The whole fate of the situation rests in the care of the debt-free Senate. The keystone of the Roosevelt recovery legislation—the public works-industrial supervision bill—already has received final House approval and the conference report upon it will be taken up today by the Senate for a last ballot.

Public Works Pending.

Piled up also on the Senate calendar is the huge $3,500,000,000 appropriation measure to take care of the public works program. Further, its conferees are studying the substitute veterans' compensation plan adopted by the House after a compromise meeting with the President Saturday.

House leaders suffered many an anxious moment before the veterans' measure finally was enacted, however, and two postponements of a final vote were necessary before a threatened uprising could be quelled and a majority mustered.

Although there were reports yesterday that House and Senate conferees at a lengthy meeting Saturday night were virtually agreed upon the proposals, objections were being formulated in the Senate over the toning down of the 25 per cent reduction limitation put on by that branch. It was this move that started all the trouble.

Will Not Veto Regrouping.

With enactment of these measures—a move confidently predicted by the Democratic leaders for today or tomorrow—Congress will be ready to adjourn regardless of the fate of other pending proposals.

The $26,000,000 Roosevelt Government reorganization plan, which stirred the row that halted final adjournment Saturday night, is going to be left before Congress.

Majority chieftains are certain it will not be disapproved.

Despite suggestions that it be withdrawn, President Roosevelt and the party leaders have determined to stand pat. The executive order abolishing bureaus and regrouping others goes into effect 60 days hence unless rejected by Congress.

Senator Borah (Republican), Idaho, who was one of the objectors Saturday night, said yesterday he was waiting opportunity to study the reorganization plan before promising any action. Opposition to it, however, appeared futile.

Roosevelt to Sign Bills.

Today Mr. Roosevelt intends to sign some of the batch of his emergency measures already sent down by Congress. Before he starts his vacation cruise up the Atlantic Coast he expects to have at work the men who will be named to administer the vast powers given to him in the busiest peace-time session of Congress ever held.

Measures now on his desk include that for reorganizing the Nation's railroads on a more economical basis, under a Federal coordinator; the $2,000,000,000 home mortgage refinancing measure, the gasoline tax, postage reduction, electricity levy bill, insurance company relief and the farm credit administration bill. All are administration measures and will receive the approval of the President.

Meanwhile on Capitol Hill supporters of the administration bill to allow the President to appoint a nonresident Governor of Hawaii were expressing joy at the recess of Congress over the week-end rather than a final adjournment.

Hawaii Bill Pending.

The failure to adjourn sine die, as had been planned, gave this measure a new lease on life, as objections had blocked its consideration in the final crowded hours.

Given new hope by the delay, also, were supporters of the Glass-Steagall bank reform bill, which still rests in conference. A drive was in formulation over the week-end to push this measure to final enactment before the session ends. Its adherents were confident this action could be attained despite obstacles in the path.

President Roosevelt has let it be known that he will sign the huge home mortgage measure in the presence of members of Congress who guided it through and of the home loan bank board, which will administer it.

The Chief Executive is prepared to ask for a moratorium on mortgage foreclosures pending administration of the new legislation.

Eastman May Be Named.

Joseph B. Eastman, member of the Interstate Commerce Commission, is expected to be named immediately by the president as the railroad coordinator to guide the carriers through a reorganization that is hoped will put them on a paying basis.

The bulk of Government reorganization moves has been deferred by the President until next winter. His order which was laid before Congress Saturday night provided for abolition of the Shipping Board and virtual abolishment of the Prohibition Bureau. The investigatory functions of the bureau would be transferred to the Department of Justice and licensing functions would be given over to the new divisions of Internal Revenue.

With this estimated saving of $25,000,000 from reorganization, it is Mr. Roosevelt's conviction that $900,000,000 has been pared from next year's budget, and that the goal of a balanced budget is in sight.

PASSAGE FORESEEN FOR BANK MEASURE

Some Say Congress Won't Quit Until Reform Bill Conferees Agree.

(Associated Press)

Threatening to keep Congress in session until it passes the Glass-Steagall bank reform bill, controverted deposit insurance provision and all, backers of that legislation yesterday hailed it as taking on new life from minute to minute.

So strong was the growing sentiment that Senator Glass, (Democrat), Virginia, coauthor of the bill, called another meeting of House and Senate conferees for this morning, when they will attempt once more to harmonize differences between the two branches.

At the same time, a petition was being circulated in the House which virtually pledged members to vote against final adjournment until the conferees agree. Those backing the petition reported that they already had more than 100 signers and would have additional names by today.

Steagall Is Emphatic

Chairman Steagall of the House Banking Committee said:

"You can quote me as saying that I don't believe Congress will adjourn without passing the bill."

Another House member, Mr. Carpenter, (Democrat), Nebraska, who Saturday threatened to block all legislation unless the bank bill was brought up, renewed his threat today.

"If there is any way to force action, we will do it, even if it means holding up the remaining things on the administration program," Mr. Carpenter asserted. "They are worthwhile, but so is the bank bill. If we keep Congress meeting until Tuesday or Wednesday—and we can—we'll get a bill."

The hitch was reported to be the Senate provision permitting branch banking by national banks in States where it is allowed to State banks by State laws. House conferees during the days of negotiations have opposed that provision, but there were reports yesterday that their leaders were urging them to drop their opposition.

Other Differences Settled.

The conferees were in virtual agreement on all other phases of the measure, including the deposit insurance compromise proposed by President Roosevelt and accepted by Messers. Glass and Steagall. That would make the first insurance effective January 1, instead of immediately, as proposed by a Senate bloc led by Mr. Vandenberg (Republican), Michigan.

A number of conferees predicted that if this compromise were written into the bill, it would prove acceptable to the Senate. House acceptance already has been conceded.

Nevertheless, leaders held that if a bill agreed to by conferees brought on a filibuster, the measure would be thrown aside in short order. On the other hand, however, the atmosphere held promise of a House filibuster, effective or not, if the bill did not come up for final action.

Fire-Fighter Pulls Boat Off Bar at War College

The Firefighter, Washington's fireboat got a workout last night when a luckless motor boat owner ran out of gas near the War College at the junction of the Eastern Branch and the Potomac.

The motor boat drifted helpless to the War College shore and went fast aground. Passing craft had attempted to get gasoline to the gasless boat, but too late. The fire boat was summoned and after half an hour's work pulled the craft back into the deeper channel.

GOV. ELY URGES BIG VOTE TO AID REPEAL

Bay State Executive Calls Action First Step to Law and Order.

Springfield, Mass., June 11 (A.P.).—Asserting that repeal of the eighteenth amendment was the first step in a return to law and order, free from the evil of an illicit business, Gov. Ely tonight in an address urged citizens to vote on the prohibition issue Tuesday.

"We are not selling our souls on an economic appeal, but asking the people to take a cancerous growth from the Constitution," the governor said in blaming the eighteenth apendment for development of racketeering.

Three delegates to a State convention are to be elected in each of 15 districts throughout the State.

Gov. Ely pleaded for a large vote in Massachusetts for repeal as an example to other States that have not yet voted, and he expressed the hope the eighteenth amendment would be wiped out of the Constitution by January 1, 1934.

No one, he said, would object to the intent of the prohibition law "to cure the evils of over-indulgence and 'strong arm' drunkenness," but, he added, "we say it has failed." The governor asserted that "not a single one of its supposed virtues has been accomplished."

"The prohibition law seeks to change habits of people by a stroke of a pen. The United States Government can not create respect essential for enforcement," the governor said of the eighteenth amendment.

12 Boy Bandsmen Felled From Heat

Chicago, June 11 (A.P.).—A dozen members of a 72-piece high school band from Menasha, Wis., collapsed from heat today as the band paraded on the Century of Progress grounds. Seven were unconscious for a few hours.

All were treated by Dr. Frank W. Baylor at the emergency hospital on the exposition grounds. He said none was in a critical condition.

The band had participated in the national high school band contest at Evanston. Yesterday as the bands paraded at Evanston, about 150 boys and girls were affected by the heat. Several were taken to Evanston hospitals. Today all were discharged and most were on their way home.

Post Staff Photo.

By means of this clay model, Engineer Commissioner Gotwals hopes to win over the objectors to the proposed cutting of Thomas Circle to provide more space for traffic. Designed in scale and with proper traffic apportionment, the model is the work of Eric F. Menke, of the District Zoning Commission.

C.M.T.C. TO BE HELD AS USUAL THIS YEAR

Reserve Officers' Training Limited to Four Weeks Says Dern.

(Associated Press.)

Secretary Dern sent instructions yesterday to the commanders of the nine corps areas that training camps of the Reserve Officers' Training Corps and the citizens military training camps will be held as usual this summer.

The Reserve Officers Training Corps camps will be held for only four weeks instead of the usual six weeks, however, and the men admitted to the citizens training contingents will be limited to those who have completed at least the basic course.

Corps commanders also were authorized to make adjustments in camp arrangements to fit in with conditions created by the establishment of Civilian Conservation Corps camps, in which the Regular Army is participating.

Full authorization was given to the nine corps area commanders of the Army to fix dates and make other decisions concerning the camps.

The uncertainty concerning appropriations has delayed the War Department orders and within recent weeks Secretary Dern and his assistants have been bombarded with requests for information about the summer camps.

It is estimated by the department that approximately 37,500 men will participate in the citizens military training camps scattered throughout the various corps areas.

Bills Still Awaiting Action From Congress

strongly backed for Senate passage as the other measures.

The $25,000,000 Government reorganization proposal, which automatically will go into effect in 60 days unless disapproved by both branches before adjournment.

Democratic leaders declined to commit themselves on the chances for adoption of the following bills awaiting action, despite drives to this end by adherents:

The Glass-Steagall bank reform bill, now in conference, but the object of a strong effort to bring it before both the Senate and House.

The corporation and municipal bankruptcy bills, now resting before a Senate committee, their chances of being reported out problematical.

The arms embargo and St. Lawrence power allocation bills, considered by many to have little chance of passage by the Senate, although already pushed through the House.

The oil industry control bills, awaiting both Senate and House action and conceded little chance for passage.

Meanwhile, among the measures passed and awaiting President Roosevelt's signature are the railroad reorganization bill, the $2,000,000,000 home mortgage bill, the gasoline tax-postage reduction-electricity tax bill and the farm credit administration measure.

CHARLES J. HOOVER DIES IN HOSPITAL

Funeral Services for Engineer Will Be Held at 10 A. M. Tomorrow.

Charles J. Hoover, 52 years old, a member of one of Washington's oldest families, died yesterday in Georgetown University Hospital. He was a consulting engineer and had laid out the early street car system in the Capital. Mr. Hoover's forbears settled in Washington in 1750.

He is survived by five brothers, George P., John E., W. H., Walter L. and Frank Hoover, and two sisters, Mrs. Gerald Egan and Miss Alice Hoover.

Funeral services will be held at 10 a. m. tomorrow. Burial will be in Rock Creek Cemetery.

Quezon Changes On Independence

Manila, June 11 (A.P.).—Members of the returning Philippine independence mission asserted on arrival today that Manuel Quezon, Senate president, would not oppose acceptance of the independence bill in the Legislature. They said efforts would be made to remove "objectionable features" in a constitutional convention.

Quezon has opposed the independence measure passed by Congress and which must be ratified by the Philippine Legislature.

Shrieking whistles on decorated launches and cheering crowds greeted the ship on which the members of the mission returned from Washington via Europe.

Capt. Barksdale's Funeral Rites Set

Funeral services for Capt. William H. Barksdale, former chief of the Military Division of the General Accounting Office, who died Saturday at Walter Reed Hospital, will be held today at 2 p. m. from his late residence, 3613 Wisconsin avenue northwest. Interment will be in Arlington National Cemetery.

Capt. Barksdale is survived by his wife, Mrs. Alice Ashton Barksdale; two daughters, Eliza and Mary Barksdale; two sons, Ashton Barksdale and Lieut. W. H. Barksdale, jr., and a sister, Mrs. R. A. Crenshaw, of East Falls Church, Va.

SCENES WIN PRAISE FOR BROOKE ACTORS

"Merchant of Venice" Trial and 3 Other Offerings Test Histrionic Ability.

With the famous trial scene from Shakespeare's "The Merchant of Venice," and three one-act plays, the Clifford Brooke Academy of Stage Training in the Dramatic Arts presented its second term students at the National Theater last evening.

A gala evening, withal; the selection from Shakespear as in the earlier demonstration of the Academy's work, scoring preeminently over Alice E. Ives' "The Sweet Elysium Club," Sir Arthur Conan Doyle's "Waterloo," and Gertrude E. Jennings' "The Rest Cure."

Always a scene to test the dramatic worth of any group of actors, and one that ever holds an audience well nigh breathless, Shylock's trial was given excellent treatment, with Theodore Tenley in the principal role after the manner of the old school that treats the usurer as one fairly dripping with gory vengeance.

Portia Role Effective.

Ruth Harsha McKenzie gave a telling delineation of Portia, reaching particularly effective heights with her reading of "The Quality of Mercy." Antonio was played by Edward A. Finlayson, with his slight touch of stagefright and a weak voice effectively veiled by the proximity of Shylock's sole-whetted knife.

Among the others were George H. Calvert, jr., as Bassanio; Edwin Rice, as Salanio; Paul Ward, as the clerk of the court; Isham Keith, as Gratiano, and Lilla LaGarde, as Nerissa.

Following much the same tenor of Klare Kummer's "Ladies in Hades," "The Sweet Elysium Club" depicted many of the famous ladies of literature in an ultra-modern "sewing circle." Headed by Louise Harrison Gwinn, as Camille, the president of the club, supported by such sirens of fiction as Carmen (Maxine Doyle), Cleopatra (Fritzi Firey), Trilby (Virginia Dyer), Galatea (Lilla LaGarde), Lady Macbeth (Claire Cargent), Little Eva (Romaine Stevens), and Lady Teazle (Helen Shields).

Habanera Wins Attention.

Special mention should be made of the habanera conceived and danced by Miss Doyle. Other club members were played by Priscilla Bogue, Betty McCall Roberts, Elizabeth Windham, Bernice Avis, Eva Coxen, Lucie Sharp, Elaine Kronheim, Barbara Ann Culley and Helen May Bloedorn.

"Waterloo" is the story of the sole survivor of that historic battle, living with his memories of past glories, John Davis, in the leading role, did a fine piece of character work, ably supported by Helen Shields, Harry Schronrank and Rodifer Wilson.

The bedroom farce of Miss Jennings, "The Rest Cure," closed the evening's histrionic progress report Murray Sheehan portrayed the author afflicted with an attack of "nerves" taking a rest cure that proves to be anything but that, a fat part of lusty buffoonry.

Excellent Training Shown.

Margaret Hefenstein, as the wife; Bernice Barti, as the lugubrious maid, and Edward A. Findlayson, as the porter, aided by the nurses—Emily Phelan, Charlotte, Mayo, Dorothy Winchole, Marie Walcott, Elizabeth Healy, Grace Harmon, Sarah Pollard—effectively make no end of trouble for the peace-seeking author.

Director Clifford Brooke, and his lieutenants, Maurice Greet, (nephew of the famed Sir Ben Greet) and Mildred Coleman, have done, and are still doing excellent work in the training of aspiring thespians, as evidenced by the finished manner in which these plays, and those of the earlier offering, were presented. A director, whose talents have been recognized by both stage and screen, Mr. Brooke had more than proved his ability to imbue his pupils with the ideals of the theater that he himself so highly personifies.

Pope Pius Honors 5 Far East Natives

Vatican City, June 11 (A.P.).—Pope Pius bestowed extraordinary honors today on five natives of the Far East, personally consecrating them as bishops in a colorful ceremony at St. Peter's.

It is only on the rarest occasions that the pontiff presides at such ceremonies. All the splendor of the church's most solemn rituals attended the event.

One Annamite, one East Indian and three Chinese received the mantle. His holiness has directed them to go back to their native lands in this new capacity and continue their missionary work.

PROSECUTOR DENIES CYRIL BUCK FAVORED

Both Brothers Must Stand Trial Equally in Kidnaping Case.

Barnstable, Mass., June 11 (U.P.).—On the eve of their trial, District Attorney William C. Crossley made it plain tonight that he considers Kenneth and Cyril Buck, Cape Cod garage men, coconspirators in the kidnaping of 10-year-old Peggy McMath.

"The State will proceed against both men in the same manner," he said. "No leniency will be shown to Cyril."

Cyril, 41, acted as contact man between the kidnaper and Neil C. McMath, father of Peggy and member of a prominent Detroit and Harwichport family. He has contended that his only interest in the case was the safe return of the child.

But both he and his brother, Kenneth, 28, crisp-haired, jobless chauffeur, have been indicted on charges of kidnaping with intent to extort. The State claims to have obtained from Kenneth a full confession of the kidnaping.

Although their trial is scheduled to open tomorrow morning in Barnstable County Courthouse it is not likely that testimony will be presented until Tuesday. Immediately after the jury has been picked Crossley will ask Judge Edward F. Hanify to order the jury to go over the scene of the crime.

Peggy was kidnaped from her school in Harwichport, May 2, and returned to her father May 6. The jury first will visit the school, then proceed to the shed on the cranberry bog, where she first was secreted and from there will go to the vacant house, across the street from Kenneth Buck's home, where she was confined in a half cellar. The jury's final visit will be to Wychmere Harbor, where Cyril Buck is alleged to have negotiated for the girl's return and 8 have secured loans from J. P. Morgan & Co. or Drexel & Co."

The tables disclosed Morgan partners serve as directors in the following:

Fifteen banks and trust companies, with total assets of $3,811,411,000.

Seven miscellaneous holding companies, of which three have total assets of $83,786,475, while the others are not recorded.

Ten railroad companies, of which nine have total assets of $3,436,666,000.

Five public utility holding companies, with total assets of $3,404,555,000.

Eight public utility operating companies, with total assets of $2,818,147,000.

Thirty-eight industrial companies, of which 29 have total assets of $6,037,644,000.

Six insurance companies, of which five have total assets of $337,187,000.

Private Banking Defended.

As the committee made public Leffingwell's statement, it was shown to be in part a defense of private banking. Most of it, however, was a discussion of economic conditions since the war and had little to do with the subject of the inquiry.

Tracing the history of the depression, he said the summer of 1932 brought "some considerable improvement," but asserted this was "brought to a close by President Hoover's Des Moines speech in which he said that we had been within two weeks of going off the gold standard."

"The controversy with European governments about the December 15 war debt payments further disturbed confidence," he added, "and the publication in January, 1933, of the loans by the Reconstruction Finance Corporation started runs on banks which were in debt to it."

Lauds Monetary Policy.

Leffingwell said nothing comparable to the collapse of prices and the deflation of credit at the time of the bank holiday "had occurred in the memory of man" and that "we had reached a level so low that the burden of indebtedness created during the war and the postwar decade had become intolerable."

"Under these circumstances," he added, "the suspension of gold payments and the vigorous and persistent monetary management to expand credit became necessary. Already these sound decisions of the administration are having a beneficial effect.

"If the Federal Reserve banks combat the deflation now, they already have the means to combat an excessive reinflation if it should occur.

Plan to Halt Deflation.

"The problem of today is to arrest the disastrous deflation. If, later on, the excesses of 1927-1929 should show any signs of recrudescence the Federal Reserve authorities, enlightened by their own errors of that period, should know how to deal with them.

"Fundamentally, the depression must be attributed to the inflation and the deflation on the one hand, and to the failure of the governments to make economic peace on the other.

"The plans to which our Government is now committed, for arresting the deflation and bringing about some rise in prices, and for lowering trade barriers, are sound and wise and go to the root of the matter."

Admits Some Mistakes.

Discussing banking legislation, Leffingwell said it would impair the usefulness of issuing houses to prevent them from receiving deposits, as proposed in the Glass bill.

Private bankers, he added, do not and should not use their deposits in their capital issues business, but the banking business is their "bread and butter."

Leffingwell, in describing the activities of his firm since the war, said:

"We have made mistakes, who has not? Our boast is that our effort during the whole postwar decade was constructively conceived toward the rehabilitation of America and the world. * * *."

FAMILY TERRORIZED BY GUNMEN IN AUTO

Texas Officers Kidnaped by Desperadoes, Who Flee With Hurt Woman.

Wellington, Tex., June 11 (A.P.).—Two machine gunning motorists terrorized a farm family, kidnaped two officers and escaped with an injured woman companion whom one called "sweetheart," today after their new coupe plunged over a road embankment.

Sheriff Dick Corey and City Marshal Paul Hardy, kidnaped in the sheriff's motor car, driven to near Erick, Okla., and left wired to a tree, identified the gunmen as Clyde Barrow, Dallas desperado, and Icy Barrow, his brother.

Steve Pritchard, farmer, was covered by two sub-machine guns when he went to the assistance of the motorists after the crash late last night.

At the insistance of the men he bore the injured woman to his home to administer first aid, but pleaded that he be permitted to call a physician.

"We can't afford it," said one of the men.

Prichard's daughter-in-law, Mrs. Jack Pritchard, was shot in one hand when she knocked upon a door of the house. The gunmen punctured the tires of Pritchard's car with bullets.

While one of the men returned to the wrecked coupe to get a rifle, Lonzo Carter, who lives with the Pritchards, slipped away to the home of a neighbor and telephoned officers.

Both the terrorists were on guard when Sheriff Corey and Marshal Hardy arrived. They surprised the officers in the darkness, bound them with their own handcuffs and, taking the injured woman with them, made off in Corey's car.

The officers said they were tied up near Erick early today with barbed wire cut from a fence. They freed themselves 30 minutes later and notified officers at Sayre, Okla., but the trail of the gunmen was lost on a highway leading toward Pampa, Tex.

The Barrow brothers are wanted for the slaying of two officers in a gunfight near Joplin, Mo., recently.

Spaniards' Sea Hop Claim Is Disputed

New York, June 12 (A.P.)—Two other flying teams can contest the claim advanced for the Spanish aviators who flew to Cuba today that their 4,533 mile flight was the longest ever made over water.

Hugh Herndon and Clyde Pangborn, and Captain Arturo Ferrarian and Carlo P. Del Prete of Italy made longer non-stop flights which were mostly over water. The absence of data on how much of the distance actually was across sea, however, makes it virtually impossible to settle the matter.

In the course of their world flight in 1931 Herndon and Pangborn flew from Samishiro Beach, 280 miles North of Tokyo, to Wenatchee, Wash., which is about 200 miles inland. The Navy Hydrographic Bureau figured the distance at 4,877 miles and the Aviation Year Book lists it at 4,558 miles.

9 KILLED IN CRASH OF PLANE IN CHICAGO

ery set the plane down near the ramp, apparently damaging a pontoon and a wing. Rather than risk a taxi over rough water, he gave the huge plane the gun and shot skyward, heading for an airport where he could use landing wheels.

Thousands See Crash.

The crash occurred when he was within a mile of his goal.

Thousands of holiday motorists saw the plane lurch in midair. A wing shivered, then crumpled. The Northern Light went down, nose tilted at an angle as Vickery made desperate attempts for a safe landing.

One witness said he saw one of the women frantically trying to get out of the plane the moment it touched ground. Then came the explosion, balking escape and attempts at rescue.

The Northern Light had a capacity load when it took off from the exposition grounds at 4:30 p. m. The ship was operated as one of a pair by the Pal-Waukee Airport to take the visitors over the city.

"I asked Vickery whether the swells on the lake were proving dangerous," Hodges said. "Vickery told me: 'Well, I'll make one more flight and see how it is to land.'"

Pilot "Could Do Nothing."

Describing the attempted landing at the ramp, Hodges said:

"The plane took off in nice style with the eight passengers, sailed to the north, and shortly before 5 p. m., it came back. As it hit the water I saw the right wing pontoon had been damaged. Probably this weakened the wing spar. The Northern Light skipped off the water and Vickery apparently planned to put the ship down on land. On the way to the airport the wing evidently cracked. Vickery could do nothing about it."

Major H. N. Woeltjens, coroner's investigator of plane deaths, after preliminary elimination of the wreckage, said it was his opinion that the strut supporting the damaged pontoon broke while in the air. It was found 500 feet away from the rest of the wreckage. About 150 feet away, the pontoon was found half buried in mud.

Frank Ormsbee, one time chief aviation pilot in the United States Navy, who took up several groups of passengers in the Northern Light prior to the crash said there did not seem to be anything wrong with the ship when he handled it.

Palefaces With Live Snakes Dance in Famous Hopi Fete

Prescott, Ariz., June 11 (A.P.)—Solemn faced Hopi and Navajo tribesmen whose ancestors knew the intricacies of the snake dance long before the coming of the Spanish invaders, nodded in silent approval today as white business men of Prescott perpetuated the rituals and ceremonies of Southwest Indians.

Gone native for the day, the citizens, banded together as the Smoki people, flung aside the conventions of modern civilization to unfold Indian legends with dances and mournful chants.

No detail of the original Indian snake dance is overlooked. Years of study of the redmen's ways are incorporated in the ritual as produced by the white men for the benefit of thousands of tourists who flock to Prescott annually to see the ceremonies.

A crier shouts from the housetops as the dances begin. The Thunder Priest, (Ka-Lai-Ta-Ka), whirls his "bull roarer" to induce thunder and rain.

Soft chants that accompany the first dance, the sand painters, swell in volume with each succeeding event until at the spectacular snake dance the city trembles under heavy sounds.

Snake priests emerge from the ceremonial chamber and halt facing the Antelope priests. Slowly the Snake priests file before the Kisi, the snake shelter, and each dancer receives a live reptile. Then on with the dance. Women of the Snake and Antelope clans make a circle of sacred corn meal upon the ground as the dance ends and the snakes are cast within the circle.

After a moment of silent prayer, they rush in, gather up the snakes and carry them away. The dancers turn them loose on the desert to return to the "world below" to testify to the fidelity of the priests in the prayers for rain they have uttered.

YESTERDAY'S ANSWER.

Radio Dial Flashes

By ROBERT D. HEINL

KING GEORGE'S address of welcome to the delegates to the World Economic Conference in London will be heard in Washington at 8:58 o'clock over WRC this morning and 9 o'clock over WJSV.

All of South America will hear it in a pick-up from Buenos Aires. If weather conditions are favorable, there will probably be few important places in the world missed.

A general picture of the conference will be given by William Hard from London over WMAL at 7:30 o'clock tonight.

The first of the series of programs, "Man Goes Straight Up Ten Mills," in connection with the first American stratosphere flight at Chicago, will be broadcast over WMAL tonight at 9:30 o'clock. It will present in dramatic form the story of the first stratosphere flight made by Auguste Piccard, in Europe.

The tenor who gets the majority of "mash" letters at WOR, Newark, is a grandfather! Capital punishment would follow the disclosure of his name, however.

"Camille," or "The Fate of a Coquette," an adaptation from the French, of Alexandre Dumas, fils, will be the Radio Guild presentation over WMAL at 3 p. m. The story concerns the love of Armand Duval for the famous courtesan, Camille, who dies just as life offers all for which she had longed.

LEAVE it to those two noisy parrots at the Pan-American Union to keep themselves on the radio. They have been laughing about their latest comeback for a couple of days.

First, understand that they are not ordinary parrots, but macaws, the aristocracy of birdland. Perhaps that is why they thought they could interrupt a Nation-wide network broadcast as they did not long ago with their boisterous carryings on and get by with it.

However, they didn't. Thereafter whenever there was a broadcast from the Pan American they were removed a safe distance from the microphones. Radio engineers heaved a large sigh of relief and everbody thought that was the last of the macaws.

It seems though that when Alberto Galimany, director of the National Band of Panama, was here several years ago they made quite a hit with him. He was so impressed with the beauty and intelligence of the two birds that he was inspired to write a composition, "La Guacamaya" ("The Macaw") which he dedicated to them.

"The Macaw" was broadcast for the first time by the Marine Band at the recent concert given at the Pan-American Union. The boisterous macaws laughed more boisterously than ever when they heard themselves back on the air again. The principal part of the selection is a piccolo obligato which imitates them.

Musician Luis Guzman, Marine Band flutist, caught their mood perfectly in the arrangement he made for this occasion. Guzman, himself a native of Colombia, was also praised for his arrangement that night of "Alma Llanera" and "In the Orange Grove." However, his arrangement of "The Macaw" almost outdid the birds themselves.

HARRY S. NEW, United States Commissioner to the World's Fair at Chicago, will be heard here at 2:30 o'clock over WMAL direct from the exposition. The former Postmaster General will give an explanation of the Government exhibits.

Not much has been heard about the part Uncle Sam is playing in the show, we look forward with considerable interest to what our old Hoosier friend will have to say on the subject.

Mr. and Mrs. John Vandercook, who like the jungle so much they sublet their New York apartment and are all set to go exploring in New Guinea and the Solomon Islands, will talk on "Jungle for Two" "America's Grub Street Speaks" over WJSV at 4 o'clock this afternoon.

The Vandercooks will leave for the New Hebrides in a few days. They will join the New Guinea gold rush and also will visit the Solomon Islands. One thing they intend trying this time is to cross the Island of Malaita on foot, a feat no white man ever has been known to do. They will give some sidelights on jungle travel that may upset a few theories of the stay-at-homes concerning wild animals and savages.

"Potash and Perlmutter" will soon be on the air.

THE Three Aces over WRC at 7:45 o'clock tonight are the latest find of Heriuf Provenson, assistant manager of that station.

"Flag Day" will be discussed by Mrs. Cora L. Manoly, of the Women's Relief Corps, of the G. A. R. (WMAL, 4:45 p. m.).

The chorus of the Cavalry Baptist Sunday school will give all Washington a chance to hear it tonight (WRC, 8:30 o'clock).

"Business Women's Clubs in Washington" with Sylvan King will hold the boards at WOL at 7:15 o'clock tonight.

Harry Hershfield, who has been adding to the gaiety of radio waves over WOR, reports this dialogue from Times Square:

"Listen, you, when you was on the witness stand what was the idea of telling the judge that you was the best actor in America?"

"I had to, see, I was under oath. Do you think I want to perjure myself?

A LOCAL contest to find the best impersonator of Bing Crosby, the star of "College Humor," will be explained over WJSV, at 4:30 o'clock this afternoon.

A New Yorker AT LARGE

By MARK BARRON.

NEW YORK—Personal notes off a New Yorker's cuff:

Frieda Inescourt is a striking example of a woman who combines a career—or, rather, careers—with marriage. She was secretary to Lady Astor, associate editor of a magazine and now is one of Broadway's best known dramatic actresses. She is wedded to Ben Ray Redman, literary critic.

Norma Terris and her husband, Dr. Jerome Wagner, live in a Connecticut house that was built from a log cabin in which George Washington once spent the night.

In one of the town's largest maternity hospitals, there is a large room where the new born babies repose in their tiny canvas cribs. A sign over the door reads "Holy Angels."

Departing Club.

Another of those venerable clubs where graying millionaires watch the passing traffic from behind large bay windows is departing from Fifth avenue. This is the Union Club, which has stood for years opposite St. Patrick's Cathedral.

Elsie de Wolfe (Lady Mendl) has a bathroom in her Paris apartment which has mirrors for floor, walls and ceilings. The only decorations are several green masks.

Married women traveling alone can not enter Cuba unless they have the written consent of their husbands.

Clergymen of any denomination can not enter Mexico without special consent. (You can see I've been visiting around the tourist agencies.)

Street scene: Millicent Rodgers, the former Countess Salm, taking a noon day stroll on Madison avenue with her two black dachshunds.

That much publicized barkentine, the Buccaneer, has come to the end of its career as a show boat anchored far up the Hudson. It was an American Army cargo ship during the war, and after that became a movie setting. It was used in more than half a dozen deep sea pictures.

Ancient Restaurants.

Washington's Revolutionary headquarters on Riverside drive has been a restaurant for more than 60 years. In Pearl street is a restaurant 214 years old.

A high green fence now incloses the "Fountain of Abundance" at the Fifth avenue entrance to Central Park. They are rebuilding this Joseph Pulitzer gift to the city.

Margaret Perry, comely red-haired ingenue, is also an artist. Another who dabbles in art is Peggy Fish, generally regarded as the most popular of style mannequins.

John Boles studied to be a physician, and his first job was as an interpreter in the Army.

I always think of orchids and ermine when I see Hope Hampton.

Eleanor Painter, singer, is from Walkerville, Ia.

Luray's Forest Camp Work Pleases Fechner

Luray, Va., June 11 (A.P.).—Robert Fechner, director of the National Conservation Corps, visited citizens camp No. 1, in the Shenandoah National Park, today.

He said he was pleased with the camp's improvement since his last visit, when he had recommended adequate transportation facilities and athletic equipment.

NAZI STORM TROOPS HALT MUNICH MASS

Action After Clashes Results in Government Ending Catholic Parley.

Munich, Germany, June 11 (A.P.). Menacing storm troopers prevented Cardinal Faulhaber from holding solemn high mass today, in connection with the Catholic Journeymen's convention here after severe clashes last night between Nazis and Catholics.

As a result of the disturbances the government today put a premature end to the meetings which were supposed to continue today.

The railway stations of Munich were packed with thousands of persons today, including many delegates, making a hurried exit from the city.

It was reliably reported that leading members of the congress were assaulted by storm troopers who tore badges off the delegates and beat them up, even using truncheons.

The badge was ripped off Herr Theo Saldi, leader of the Swiss delegation, and then he was taken to the police station but released later. He lodged a protest with the Bavarian government, and the Swiss consul is pursuing the matter.

According to witnesses Catholic priests were not immune from attack and it was reported last night that several hundred uniformed Nazis appeared at a hotel where Catholic apprentices were staying and dragged them out of bed. Two of the Catholics were sent to a hospital.

The official version of the affair attributes the disorder to a provocative attitude by attendants at the convention and their wearing of orange colored shirts which was considered by the Nazis to be a misuse of the brown shirt.

Cardinal Faulhaber's mass was to have been held in the huge exhibition hall, but when delegates appeared the storm troopers had already blocked the entrances.

The convention had originally been prohibited by the Bavarian government, but was eventually permitted to meet because, among other reasons, Franz von Papen, vice chancellor of the Reich, was scheduled to speak before it.

The worst clashes occurred after Von Papen's address, entitled, "Unity in the Spirit of the Nation," in which he attacked liberalism and democracy.

Storm troopers held a huge triumphal parade through the streets this morning "as a spontaneous reply" to last night's disturbances, according to the police version.

The clashes marked the first grave street conflict between Catholics and Nazis since the last election campaign when many Catholic campaigners were attacked and their meetings dissolved.

Real Action Urged At London Parley

New York, June 11 (A.P.).—The world economic conference, in the opinion of Dr. Mary E. Woolley, "looms large as a factor for war or peace."

The president of Mount Holyoke College, on the eve of the conference's opening session Monday, said that "already, thoughtful observers are stating that United States isolation may be the alternative if cooperation fails."

The statement of Dr. Woolley, named by former President Hoover as a member of the American disarmament delegation to Geneva, was included in an appeal issued by the national committee on the cause and cure of war to the American public to urge definite action at London.

Ketch Leaves U. S. On Long Sea Trip

New York, June 11 (A.P.).—William Albert Robinson, who sailed around the world in a 32-foot ketch in 1930, set out in the same boat from Staten Island today for the Galapagos Islands.

Robinson was accompanied by his wife, the former Florence Crane, of Chicago, whom he married in February, and Daniel West, 20, who took the pens and pencils of an artist.

"We may be gone six months—or a year—and we may go on to the South Seas and amble back round the world," said Robinson. "All we know is—there's a fine breeze now—and we're off."

Gay Pair Get Free Fuel and Rob Till

Chicago, June 11 (A.P.).—It was a pleasant robbery, conducted with the most jovial of spirits.

"Fill 'er up," said one of three men who drove up to William Gegenworth's filling station today.

Gegenworth filled 'er up while his customers—hail fellows and very well met—laughed and joked about whether they ought to pay for the gas.

They reached a decision. One of them produced a revolver and rifled the cash drawer of $27. Chuckling, they drove away.

Annapolis Elks Hold Flag Day Ceremonies

Special to The Washington Post.

Annapolis, Md., June 11.—In accord with long-established custom, Annapolis lodge of Elks today held flag day exercises on the main portico of the State Capitol. Several hundred residents of the city attended.

State's Attorney Herbert R. O'Conor, of Baltimore City, delivered the address of the occasion and a program of patriotic music was given by the boys band of Washington lodge, No. 18.

Former Davao Governor Dies on His Plantation

Davao, P. I., June 11 (A.P.).—Ralph E. McFie, 58, former Governor of Davao Province, died on his hemp plantation near here today.

McFie was born in Coulterville, Ill., and was graduated from the New Mexico College of Agriculture. He was a member of Theodore Roosevelt's Rough Riders in the Spanish-American War and came to the Philippine Islands after the Cuban campaign.

The Federal Diary

By GEORGE D. RILEY.

Strawberry day at Bell Station, Glenn Dale, Md. Left to right, Howard DeCou, Merchantsville, N. Y., one of the largest strawberry growers in the East; Dr. G. M. Darrow, Dr. E. C. Auchter and W. F. Allen.

THE UNITED STATES DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE held its annual strawberry field day at the Bell Station, Glen Dale, Md., strawberry breeding grounds, Saturday. A large group, including commercial growers, State horticulturists, and county agents, inspected strawberry seedlings in the propagating house; watched leaf topping tests; sampled the newest department introductions—Blakemore, Bellmar, Redheart, Southland, Dorsett, Fairfax and Narcissa. About 30,000 seedlings, fruited for the first this year, were on display.

Dr. E. C. Auchter, in charge of the department's division of horticultural crops, and G. M. Darrow, in charge of the investigations at Bell, outlined the work on strawberries and answered questions on the new varieties.

W. F. Allen and Leo Allen, of Salisbury, Md., the largest growers of strawberry plants in the United States, and Howard de Cou, of Merchantsville, N. Y., one the largest strawberry growers in the East, attended Strawberry Day. Girl Scouts served a picnic luncheon to the visitors.

TIME was when the Eastern Seaboard was regarded as the exporting section of the country, for here we saw the smokestacks and the concentrated carrier centers and terminals.

When we talked of the industrial section of the country we immediately visualized steel mills and coal mines of Pennsylvania, woolen and cotton mills of New England, canneries, the fishing smacks and their unloading docks, harborside tanker facilities and the widely assorted lines of endeavor New York City and State are noted for.

The Commerce Department just now is busy compiling export figures and while they do not fire the imagination as they once did, they do show that the picture we have just presented is far from the present situation.

Like the pioneers, industry has blazed its trail the length and breadth of the country, so that every hamlet is a potential point for exports.

PAUSE a moment to consider the exports of Kentucky alone, for an instance. The Blue Grass State exported merchandise the first nine months of 1932 valued at $7,844,162, Commerce statistical division tells us. Cigarettes, textiles, coal, boards, scantlings, machinery, flour, brick, tile and nicotine sulphate made up most of the items.

Iowa's exports totaled $7,257,865 for the same period, and included lard, hams, oatmeal, flour, corn, nonmetallic minerals, machinery, tractors and chemicals.

So go West, go North, South and East if you want to know more of the exporting business of the U. S. Figures are being compiled for each State.

LET us read what George B. McGinty, secretary, Interstate Commerce Commission, has to say about gossip:

"A party engaged in research work on the subject of administration called upon me recently for an interview. He asked many questions. One was in connection with gossip, thoughtless and innocently intended or willful and malicious, to which I was pleased to respond that there is very little, if any, gossip in this particular branch of the Federal service, certainly none intended to injure any individual.

"While considering this rather farfetched phase of his subject, however, we were of one view—that there is nothing more despicable nor contemptible than an attack upon an innocent character. Whenever I hear gossip I am reminded of a story of the olden days of the peasant confessing to the monk that he had slandered an innocent friend. The monk said to him:

"'For your penance do this now: Take a bag of chicken feathers, go to every yard in the town and drop one feather into each garden. Do not miss one yard, and when you have finished return to me.'

"'THE sinner believed his punishment was light. With his bag of feathers he made the circuit of the town and carefully dropped one into each garden. Then he reported to the monk, saying: 'I have done my penance.'

"'No, my son,' replied the old abbe, 'you will not have done your penance until you take the bag, go again on your rounds, collect every feather you have dropped and bring it here to me.'

"The gossip protested that it would be impossible. He could not find the bits of down in a lifetime. Many of them had blown away.

"'So it is with gossip,' replied the old monk. 'It is easily dropped; but never again, no matter how hard you try, can you gather back the words you have so thoughtlessly scattered.'"

I am not so very fond of pay cuts and furloughs, but they would not be so bad if it weren't for dumb-cracking, self-appointed and self-acclaimed wise guys who know so much about what the services of others are worth.

RUMORS RAMPANT.

Each day new rumors greet our ears to give us creeps and quivers. They say some "clerks" have aged ten years and nearly all have shivers.

Some may chortle o'er vacations in the hills or by the sea but to cause me palpitations, just make sure this job for me.—Felix Fed.

Sincerity?

With wealth and pomp was great Abdul, King of Persia's mighty state; but a beggar was richer in a different way, who sat by the castle gate. Great devotion to their mighty king, his courtiers all pretend; and the beggar might be the richer man. He was a loyal friend.

Fawning deceit do the mighty receive, little positions to retain. Sincerity alone does the beggar give. He can no favors gain. So friendship is valued by the many men for just what it will bring. Then who has been the richer man, the beggar or the king? "The beggar to his friend?"—Henry S. Selden, Geological Survey.

YOU are raising cain with my blood pressure, printing letters which say Government clerks are overpaid and could not earn 75 per cent of the salary they get if they were working on the outside.

This person who styles himself, "One Who Knows," either has been a sucker for a bunch of propaganda aimed at lower wages throughout industry, or he is a plain and simple ass, with emphasis on the simple.

If I'm a "pampered pet" and those who work with me are "pampered pets," Morgan is the heaviest taxpayer in the United States, and Senator Glass and Ferdinand Pecora are blood brothers.

May I say to "Mr. One Who Claims He Knows" that I quit a job in private industry to take one with the Government which paid the grand sum of $12 a year more than I was receiving. Since that time, about 17 months ago, Government workers have received a greater reduction in salary than has been handed the boys working for the company that I quit. I would have been dollars and cents ahead if I had remained in private industry.

MAN AND WIFE HELD IN EXTORTION PLOT

Attempt to Obtain $4,700 From Mrs. Katherine Fuller Is Foiled.

New York, June 11 (A.P.).—An attempt to extort $4,700 from Mrs. Katherine Brown Fuller, society horsewoman, was disclosed today with the announcement that Ira R. Brown and his wife were being held for investigation.

After Mrs. Fuller received threatening letters Thursday and Friday, she notified police.

A package of paper cut the size of currency then was left by Mrs. Fuller at a beer garden in accordance with directions in one of the notes. Brown and his wife, who, police said, showed an interest in the package when it was given to the bartender, were arrested.

Takoma Park Boy, 3, Hurt When Hit by Car

Richard Hartig, 3, received slight injuries yesterday when he ran from behind a parked automobile in front of a car driven by Harry C. Hensley, of 11 Boyd avenue, Takoma Park.

The child was taken to the Washington Sanatorium and Hospital, where he was said to be suffering from cuts and bruises.

Strangling

Demanded by Widows in Two Aboriginal Villages Just Discovered.

Canberra, Australia, June 11 (A.P.).—Two hitherto unknown aboriginal villages, where widows insist on being strangled to death, have been discovered on the island of New Britain.

Patrol Officer H. R. Niall, of the New Guinea police, came upon the villages while in an expedition across the island, which lies to the east of New Guinea.

When a villager dies his widow demands death by strangulation in order that her spirit may be freed to join his, Niall says in a report to the federal government of Australia.

"On some occasions, the men, being afraid of consequences, have refused to strangle a woman," the report continues.

"Then it sometimes happens that the widow takes off her grass skirt and hands it to the men, telling them to put it on and saying they are only women and not real men. This so shames them they reluctantly kill her according to custom.

Consummation of the weird ritual is the duty of the widow's brother or her nephews, who wind a native bark cloth around her neck and tighten it until she is choked.

12 HURT AS BLAST RUINS MOTOR-BOAT

Blazing Cabin Is Hurled on Ship's Hull and Men Into Water at Norfolk.

Norfolk, Va., June 11 (A.P.).—Twelve persons were injured today in an explosion that wrecked the motorboat Smuggler as it was leaving the public dock at Willoughby Spit on a fishing trip.

The blast lifted the cabin and the superstructure 30 feet in the air, witnesses said, and dropped it, a blazing mass, on the ship's hull. All aboard the craft either jumped or were blown into the water, which was about shoulder deep.

The most seriously injured were James E. Rabey, engineer; Henry H. Seibel, D. B. O'Brien and Nich Sanakini. Each suffered burns about the face and body.

Small boats picked up the injured persons and carried them ashore for medical treatment. Only two were confined in hospitals tonight.

The cause of the blast was unknown.

UNCLE SAM, ENTREPRENEUR.

In many respects the national industrial recovery act is the most remarkable measure ever enacted by Congress. No one yet fully understands its innovations because it is a grant of power, and the powers have not been exercised. But any one who has watched the progress of this measure from the time it was formulated until the present must sense that it opens a new chapter in the economic history of the United States.

The public works section by itself is a momentous undertaking. It levies heavy taxes upon business and industry to raise a reconstruction fund. This money itself is not to be spent on public works, but will be used to pay interest and small amortization installments on a bond issue that may amount to $3,300,000,000. Uncle Sam will pour out an immense sum in an effort to prime the industrial pump. The Government has taken upon itself the responsibility of putting men back to work by creating public jobs. It remains to be seen whether this costly experiment will make any real contribution to national recovery.

That section of the measure designed as a direct stimulus to industry gives Uncle Sam far more control over private enterprise than he has ever before exercised in peace time. The traditional American system has been set aside. The country is to experiment with an era of cooperation under bureaucratic control in place of free competition. All industry and business must bow before Federal regulation or face extinction through the license system.

Some large industries which for years have been bedeviled by cut-throat competition are delighted with the measure. Others are threatening to close their plants and await the return of the country to economic normality. For the most part the big industries are pleased, and the owners of small plants are skeptical. No doubt this feeling is accentuated by reports that some of the foremost industrial leaders of the country will be called upon to help formulate the cooperative program. Independent manufacturers fear that monopolistic interests will dominate the new boards of industrial control.

Success of this plan will depend in large measure upon the way in which it is administered. If wisely directed, it may become a most important factor in leading the way back to normal conditions in industry. Otherwise it may stifle enterprise, foster monopoly and subject industry to intolerable conditions. The bill contains not only authority for trade groups to cooperate outside of the antitrust laws, but it gives the President dictatorial powers over all industry when the cooperative method appears to be unsatisfactory. Arbitrary use of that power would put private enterprise entirely at the mercy of Federal bureaucracy.

This momentous deviation from established American policy can be explained in only one way. It is an emergency measure. Members of Congress who approved it are not converted to the principles of socialism or regimentation. They felt compelled to do something to speed recovery, and they didn't know what else to do. The typical atttitude was expressed by Senator Walsh when he said: "The plan may prove disastrous, but I am going to vote for it without apology." It is a noble experiment whose effects can not possibly be foreseen.

At present it is assumed that this measure will be in effect only during the emergency. But an undertaking of this kind in peace time is extremely difficult to terminate. Powerful industrial organizations which obtain benefits from the measure will not relinquish them without a struggle. It is difficult to shift back to self-regulation from Government control—from protected joint action to free competition. Furthermore, relations that are established formally under this measure may be maintained informally after it ceases to be effective.

The influence of this concentration of power and this surrender of private initiative to public agencies may be felt in American economic life for a long time. No one at present can say whether the benefits will outweigh the abuses. That depends upon what is yet to be done. But the Rubicon has been crossed. It remains for business, industrial and labor groups to employ these privileges for their mutual benefit, and for the Government to make doubly certain that the interests of the public are protected.

DISTRICT TAXES CUT.

The District Commissioners deserve commendation for their prompt action in reducing local taxes. Taking advantage of their first opportunity to act on this matter, the Commissioners slashed taxes for the average home owner about 17½ per cent. This was accomplished by reduction of the tax rate from $1.70 to $1.50 per $100 of valuation and the reduction of realty assessments by nearly $80,000,000. About $3,804,000 will thus be saved to Washington taxpayers.

This prompt action by the Commissioners emphasizes the reason why taxpayers of Washington have not been relieved previously. Tax reductions in the District were in order four years ago, but they were prevented by Congress. Auditor Donovan points out that at the beginning of the fiscal year 1930 the District had a surplus of $8,689,664. A year later that surplus had grown to $9,469,143. Instead of permitting tax reductions, as the basic law contemplated, Congress forbade the Commissioners to lower the tax rate. Residents of Washington were forced to pay the high rates even though such rates brought in enormous surplus funds.

Congress virtually appropriated the surplus funds to Federal uses. The fact that the District of Columbia had a large surplus, piled up in the Treasury by overtaxation, was used as an argument for reduction of the Federal contribution toward maintenance of the National Capital. Instead of allowing the Commissioners to cut the tax rate, Congress slashed its contribution to the District budget. In this way the surplus was dissipated for the benefit of Federal taxpayers, and the District now obtains only a pittance from the Government to maintain its dignity and beauty as the National Capital.

Three years ago tax reduction could have been accomplished with no hardship upon the District or any of its institutions. Now it has been accomplished by starving the schools, slashing employes' salaries, discontinuing libraries and otherwise curtailing the service which the municipal government should render to the people. The difference, of course, lies in the drastic reduction of the Federal contribution.

Next year the District will undoubtedly need more liberal appropriations than it has been granted this year. But there will be powerful resentment against any increase in the tax rate. Congress may then be induced to bear its own share of the cost of maintaining the Federal City. In any event the tax reduction is most welcome as a step toward the establishment of an equitable relationship between the District and the Federal Government, as well as for the immediate relief it affords.

GERMAN NATIONALISM.

Until the intensive nationalistic principles of the Nazis received such emphasis in Germany that country was the last one to consider a policy of economic isolation. Thoroughly industrialized, requiring heavy importations to supply raw materials for its factories and likewise foreign markets for their products, the country's welfare seemed to rest upon the maintenance of an extensive foreign trade. Today there is a new spirit abroad in Germany, fostered by many National Socialists, which holds that foreign loans and foreign trade are drawbacks to the stability and welfare of the nation.

The advocates of the new nationalism propose no half measures. They insist that there shall be no more borrowing abroad and that the national policy shall concentrate upon making the Reich economically self-sufficient. This has for years been the endeavor of many of Germany's smaller neighbors, but it is surprising to see a great manufacturing and exporting nation undertake to become independent of the rest of the world. Nevertheless recent official pronouncements and acts indicate such a course. There have been repeated assertions that Germany could not pay the service upon her private debts unless she could increase the amount of her exports so as to cover these fixed charges. Instead of expanding, German foreign trade has been steadily declining, until today, with foreign charges this year amounting to 1,600,000,000 marks, the export surplus is not expected to reach one-half that sum.

Following the called conference with foreign bankers in Berlin the Reichsbank has announced the suspension of payments upon all foreign loans with the exception of those on short-term credits which do not fall due this year. Officially this is condoned by the necessity of protecting the stability of the mark from further drains upon the gold reserve. Unofficially there are not lacking intimations that, in view of Germany's present situation, private debts to foreigners will have to go the way of reparations.

If the economic conference in London is successful in bringing about a revival of international commerce it is probable that Germany will take prompt advantage of the opportunity to expand foreign trade. This may result in suppressing for the time the campaign of many Nazis against further foreign loans and in favor of German self-sufficiency. If substantial improvements in foreign trade do not materialize as a result of the London parley it is freely predicted that the revolutionary movement for transforming Germany into a self-contained nation will gain much headway.

LIMITED POWERS.

An interesting question as to how far the Executive's treaty-making powers extend has arisen over the fact that President Roosevelt has obtained no specific authority from Congress to deal with the war debts or tariff adjustments. At the beginning of the extra session it was generally assumed that Congress would be asked to deal with both of these issues in some way, but the President decided that he could get along without any additional powers. It seems questionable, however, whether anything definite can be accomplished in either field under the treaty-making authority.

A false impression is being broadcast as to the nature of the war debt agreements. It is said that these settlements are in the nature of treaties and can therefore be modified by action of the President with the advice and consent of the Senate. This is a grave error. The debt settlements were not negotiated by the Executive, but by a congressional commission. Nor were the completed agreements merely ratified by the Senate. They were passed by both houses of Congress in the form of statutes.

Moreover, when Congress approved the Hoover moratorium it specifically forbade the President to grant another holiday on debt payments or to make any other concessions without the consent of Congress. The effect of the debt settlement statutes and this latest inhibition upon the President is to put the debts beyond the treaty-making powers of the President. He may take no step toward actually modifying the debt agreements without specific approval of Congress.

Of course, the President may talk the situation over with the debtor nations and may agree to recommend certain changes to Congress. But he can pledge nothing further than his advice to Congress. Favorable action by both houses is absolutely essential before the debt agreements can be modified in any respect.

The situation with respect to tariffs is similar. Of course, the President may negotiate reciprocal agreements with the understanding that they can have no effect until approved by Congress. In the past Congress has usually rejected even those tariff agreements which it had instructed the President to negotiate.

Adjustments for bargaining purposes can not be made through the flexible provision of the tariff act, because changes of this kind must be based on differences in costs of production here and abroad.

A great deal of ill-feeling and resentment may be avoided if it is made definitely clear at the outset of any negotiations on these two subjects that the President has authority only to make recommendations to Congress, and that the present Congress has given no indication as to what its attitude may be.

Looking back over the last three months, it would have been much simpler if Congress had merely said to the President, "Go ahead and do whatever you like with everything and everybody."

Farmers who take note of that $3,459,480,908 appropriation bill can't help wishing that they had postponed their claims until the tail end of the session.

What a honeymoon! Congress gave away all its dowry and mortgaged Uncle Sam's income, but it was blissful.

Depositors in closed banks are wondering just how the bandit system can be applied to conservators.

THE HOME MARKET

From the Syracuse Post-Standard.

What is the best method of breaking down foreign trade barriers? By building up home consumption.

If the United States were to say, "Well, we'll go along on a moderate program of international cooperation, but the real key to the enigma is developing the home market," it would have a really practicable program.

When American families are buying goods, American factories are making 90 per cent of those goods. In order to make them they must have materials and substantial proportions of those materials must come from abroad.

Orders for raw materials from abroad give other countries the funds with which to buy our materials—cotton, wheat, manufactures and other commodities.

There is no substitute for a sound, growing home market.

Syracuse makes many articles that go into the export business. A good example is typewriters. It can make better typewriters than other countries and can sell them at a competitive price. If our home market is active and industries are busy supplying it, these industries buy goods from countries which use receipts for them to buy typewriters.

Most of the imports of the United States come in duty free today. Rubber, coffee, hides, sugar, silk, paper base stocks and copper are our chief imports; they account for 37 per cent of all imports. Sugar and cattle hides are taxed, while copper must pay an internal levy. Raw materials and crude foodstuffs and crude manufacture make up 60 per cent of this country's total imports. A total of 65 per cent of imports enter duty free.

A large proportion of world trade is in raw or semifinished materials. As far as this country is concerned, more than half of it enters free of duty. Imports, which provide better balances for other countries, depend largely upon the state of business at home.

Take care of the home market and foreign trade will take care of itself.

Ending the Senate anarl over the toilet kits bids fair to do as much for the hirsute entanglements in the forest camps.

Attorney General Cummings announces that there has been no departure from the established order of government. Aiding and abetting vice-dictators don't start work till next week.

Prof. Moley says pipe down o enthusiasm over what the London conference can accomplish; if it only fixes up money that will be grand and, anyhow, most of our troubles are home grown.

Maynard Keynes is something of a transatlantic satirist. He opened his Sunday broadcast with the assurance that England would support the American policy at the economic parley and hoped to learn what it is.

The 267 delegates to the London conference might be able to agree if they had left the 1,200 experts at home.

Any good fight promoter could have told the Senate it was staging a histrionic anticlimax by showing the heavyweight Morgan bout first.

Efforts in behalf of stable money in London may be handicapped by the fact that so many delegates are familiar with only garage and hangar nomenclature.

The Nazis will get in Dutch if they attempt to put anything over behind the back of Prof. Dodd. Does the new ambassador know his German?

Bobbie La Follette couldn't get a single one of his five billion dole bills through two Congresses, but his lone objection blocked the President's recovery measure.

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST.

PIONEER SPIRIT.

He would not walk the certain roads
Laid out by knowledge wise,
And trimmed with little snug abodes
Where counselors advise.
The soul of him was wild to go
An independent way,
To run the risk of life and know
The dangers of the day.

He would not settle down to tread
The charted paths and sure,
At night to tumble into bed
Soft pillowed and secure.
That restless soul of his must run,
Though friendless and alone,
Away from everything that's done
To learn what's still unknown.

He had no patience with us all
Who whispered: "Be content.
Who climbs o'er caution's sheltering wall
May die ere day be spent."
He laughed to scorn our petty fears
And tried the wall to climb,
Shouting: "Who'd live for seventy years
In safety all the time?"

He stumbled often, now and then
His body sorely burned,
Into the peaceful haunts of men
For comfort he returned,
But rested and refreshed once more,
That energetic soul
Would turn his back on safety's door
To seek some dangerous goal.

It Is Folly to Use the Water That Is Needed to Prime the Well.

By ROBERT QUILLEN

FOR the first time in three long lean years, the return of prosperity seems a possibility of the immediate future.

It will not come in a day. One of America's periodic depressions was ended promptly by a crop failure in Europe, but that couldn't happen now. When all the world is sick, one part of it can't be healed by the ill fortune of another part.

The coming of prosperity this time depends on the rehabilitation of cash customers. And, for that reason, the obstacle most to be dreaded is the short-sighted selfishness of employers.

There may have been a time when the wage scale fixed by an employer was none of the world's business. And even now the world has no right to criticize an employer's effort to make as much profit as he can, for all of us are engaged in the same pursuit.

But it can be shown that the employer's effort to get his profit too quickly will result in destroying all profits, and that is the business of everybody. The dairyman could increase his immediate profits by giving his cows no feed; but neither profits nor cows would last long, and a public in need of milk would quite properly claim an interest in the matter.

Wages are not a mere expense. They are seed. They are bread cast on the water that returns after many days. And in a land where most of us are employes, the payment of wages is the staking of cash customers.

Business is picking up, but the process is slow. The merchant, still selling some goods and afraid prices will go up, orders a box of gadgets. The manufacturer of gadgets employes a few men to fill the order and pays them certain wages. These few men, now equipped to become cash customers, go to the merchant and buy gadgets.

But if their wage is too small, they buy only the necessities of life. Then the merchant can not sell the gadgets he bought; he orders no more from the manufacturer; the manufacturer must stop his machinery.

Employers have had no profits for a long time. Most of them have losses to make up. You can't blame them if they try to keep operating costs as low as possible now and get a little immediate profit from their first orders.

But paying low wages will surely starve the goose that lays golden eggs. The only possible way to develop a new demand for goods is to give employes some money to spend.

The important thing is not to make an immediate profit, but to get money into circulation. When wage-earners have abundance of money to spend, the profits will take care of themselves.

POLITICAL COMMENT

Reducing Bond Interest.

Philadelphia Evening Public Ledger.

When the British treasury was hard put to it for money several months ago, it asked the holders of war-time bonds bearing a high rate of interest to exchange them for 2 per cent bonds. The public responded until virtually the whole issue was refunded at the lower interest rate.

Senator Bone, of Washington, has proposed that the Treasury Department make the same appeal to the patriotism of American bondholders. A reduction in the interest of the bonded debt to 2 per cent would save many hundred million dollars a year to the taxpayers.

As a reduction in the rate of interest is contemplated in the plans of the Government for the relief of farmers and home owners whose property is mortgaged, the precedent is set for what Senator Bone wants done.

Whistling Troubles Away.

Kansas City Times.

The message President Roosevelt sent to the graduates in music of Syracuse University through Secretary William H. Woodin is all right as far as it goes. The President said, "When I get myself in trouble, I always whistle a tune." The trouble is that so few persons can whistle a tune in trouble or out of it, that is, a tune that others recognize as such. The President should have added, therefore, "If I could not manage a tune, I would not whistle; I would do something else."

And the Ultimate Consumer.

Detroit Free Press.

Evidently Senator Glass suspects that Mr. Pecora is a lawyer of the Philadelphia type. Nobody, they say, can tell what a Philadelphia lawyer is getting at until he gets it.

It's All Right Now.

Nebraska State Journal.

Two years ago President Hoover recommended the closing of a number of interior customs offices, but the Democratic House voted it down. This list would have included Lincoln and Omaha. Now the order has gone out from the President that the Hoover plan be put into effect. He does not need to ask Congress, because Congress gave him blanket authority to act in such matters. Times and politics make strange bedfellows.

Fight Just Begun.

Springfield Republican.

This congressional counter-attack on the economy program of the administration is a sharp reminder that there can be no let-up at any time in the pressure of public sentiment demanding the elimination of the abuses in the pension system. A few months ago such organizations as the National Economy League made a brave showing. They seem to have withdrawn from the field on the assumption that the battle was won. Is it not true that the battle has no more than begun?

THE ONCE OVER

By H. I. PHILLIPS

DR. ROOSEVELT LOOKS OVER THE PATIENT AGAIN.

Dr. Roosevelt—Well, Uncle, how does it feel to be sitting up again?

Uncle Sam—I'm a little wobbly on my legs, but it's great to be out of bed.

Dr. Roosevelt—You still look pale. Are you all right?

Uncle Sam—I'm all right, but I'm wondering how I'll feel two years from now.

Dr. Roosevelt—Why the misgivings?

Uncle Sam—Since I've been sitting up the nurse has been telling me all the things I'd have to do to regain my strength. She made me pretty jittery.

Dr. Roosevelt—What did she say?

Uncle Sam—She said something about my going into business.

Dr. Roosevelt—Yes, we think making you into a sort of efficiency expert, production expert, industrial organizer and general all-around business man will do you good. Nothing burdensome, you know. Just a tonic.

Uncle Sam—The nurse said something about my running a license bureau, too.

Dr. Roosevelt—Yes, just to build you up, we're going to let you decide which business men to license. You'll have complete charge.

Uncle Sam (looking a little nervous)—I think I'll go back to bed.

Dr. Roosevelt—Why?

Uncle Sam—I feel a terrible headache coming on.

Dr. Roosevelt—After what you've been through a headache will seem like nothing.

* * * *

Uncle Sam—What else do you plan for me while I'm recuperating?

Dr. Roosevelt—Well, we're going to make you a night and day watchman and an examiner. We plan to have you put in a few hours every day as a sort of censor of the stock market. No heavy work, merely a little light exercise.

Uncle Sam—What'll I do?

Dr. Roosevelt—Oh, nothing much. Just read and pass on all new stock flotations. You'll have to see that everything is on the level and that no facts are withheld or misrepresented. It ought to be excellent for your general health. Very light work, really.

* * * *

Uncle Sam—Have you prescribed any other treatments for me?

Dr. Roosevelt—Yes, you'll do a mortgage business on the side, regulate things in the oil fields, sort of watch out for the farmers and help run the railroads of the country. Mere child's play.

Uncle Sam (very weakly)—Is that all?

Dr. Roosevelt—Twice a day between meals you'll run Muscle Shoals and in the afternoon after lunch you'll do some reforestation. In the evening just before retiring I want you to handle all disputes in codes of business competition . . .

Uncle Sam (sagging at the knees)—Doctor, what'll I do with my spare time?

Dr. Roosevelt—I'm figuring that out with the professors.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Constitution Provides for "Coins" as Money, and Not Pieces of Paper.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: I have never handled enough money to become an expert, but I claim that those who say it is constitutional to destroy the gold standard and thereby make scraps of paper legal tender must have a great contempt for the Constitution. I should think any ordinary pettifogger would be ashamed of the argument that it is all right to demonitize gold because it is not forbidden to do so in the Constitution. The Constitution says Congress shall have power "to coin money." Therefore, I am simple-minded enough to assert that, even if we are forced to use it, paper money is not money of the Constitution.

It is common sense to suppose that gold and silver, one or both, were intended to be coined, according to the Constitution. The men who wrote the Constitution were careful in their use of words. If the idea had been that fiat paper could be a legal tender in peace time emergencies, they would have clearly provided that, in addition to coining money, the Congress shall have power to "print" money.

That hard money was contemplated by the Constitution makers is indicated by the provision in section 10, Article I, which prohibits the States from making "anything but gold and silver coin a tender in payment of debts."

Mrs. Dall Is Guest of Demarest Lloyds at Bust Unveiling.

MRS. CURTIS DALL, daughter of the President and Mrs. Roosevelt, was among the guests at the dinner given Saturday evening by Mr. and Mrs. Demarest Lloyd at their beautiful home on Eighteenth street.

The occasion was the unveiling of a bronze bust of Col. Marvin McIntyre, secretary to the President, a work of the young Russian sculptor, Nicholas Tregor, who has been in Washington for several months doing prominent men in official circles.

Following the dinner additional guests had been invited for the unveiling, and for the music and dancing later. The bust, a remarkable likeness of the popular and attractive Col. McIntyre, was placed on a high pedestal against a hanging of deep blue velvet and covered with a crimson velvet scarf. After the presentation of the bust to Col. McIntyre, he made a brief speech of thanks and introduced to the enthusiastic guests the young artist.

A short program of Chopin was given by Mr. Bogusloffski, well-known pianist, and Mme. Serena Van Gordon, formerly of the Metropolitan Opera, sang, accompanied by Mr. Kurt Hetzel, of Washington. Later the guests danced to the music of the famous Russian orchestra of Zarin, of New York.

Among the guests were the Assistant Secretary of State, Prof. Raymond Moley; Mr. Arthur Mullin, jr., Dr. Stanley Hornbeck, of the State Department; Col. Marco Penneroli, Military Attache of the Italian Embassy; Mrs. Sidney Cloman, Mrs. Frank C. Letts, Mrs. Rose Merriam, Mrs. Campbell Pritchett, Mrs. Pendleton Mayo, Miss Charlotte Mayo and Miss Alice Rogers.

The Ambassador of France and Mme. de Laboulaye will be the guests of honor at the weekly luncheon of the Women's National Press Club tomorrow at the Willard.

Chilean Charge d'Affaires Honors Consul General.

The Charge d'Affaires of Chile, Mr. Benjamin Cohen, entertained at luncheon yesterday to meet the acting Consul General of Chile in New York and Senora de Goez, who are spending a few days in the Capital to attend the graduation of their son, Mr. Armando Goez, from Georgetown University today.

The guests included the Ambassador of Brazil and Mme. de Lima e Silva, the Ambassador of Argentina, Senor Felipe Espil; the Ambassador of Spain and Senora de Cardenas, the Counselor of the Roumanian Legation, Mr. Frederic Nano; the Commercial Attache of the Spanish Embassy and Senora de Echegaray, Senor Quiroz, Argentine artist; Miss Caroline Bancroft, of Denver, Colo.; Miss Francesca McKenney, Senorita Rebecca Alfaro, Senor Armando Goez and the Second Secretary of the Embassy, Senor Mario Rodriguez.

The Minister of Hungary to London and Countess Szechenyi announce the engagement of their eldest daughter, Countess Cornelia, to Mr. Eugene Roberts, of Washington.

Countess Cornelia made her debut here several seasons ago when her father was Hungarian Minister to Washington, and has spent most of her life in the Capital where Count Szechenyi represented his country for many years.

She is the granddaughter of the dowager, Mrs. Vanderbilt, her mother having been Miss Gladys Vanderbilt. Countess Cornelia left Washington early in the spring to accompany her father to his new post in London, where they will be joined later in the summer by Countess Szechenyi, and Miss Nandine and Miss Sylvia Szechenyi.

Mr. Roberts, who is the son of Mrs. Eugene Roberts and the late Mr. Roberts, of Landsdowne, Md., is well-known in Washington society. His mother, the former Miss Annette Carter Bowie, is the daughter of a former Governor of Maryland, Oden Bowie. Mr. Roberts' cousin, Mr. Clarence Roberts, is married to the sister of Lord Fairfax.

Though no date or place has been set for the wedding, it is expected that it will take place in the near future in London. The wedding of Countess Cornelia's sister, the former Countess Alice, to Count Bela Hadik, of Hungary, took place several years ago at the legation, and was the outstanding social event of the season.

The Minister of the Netherlands and Mme van Royen will sail early next month to spend the summer at their home in Holland.

The Counselor of the Canadian Legation and Mrs. Hume Wrong and their children will leave the middle of the week for Canada where Mrs. Wrong and the children will remain through the summer.

Mr. Constantin Brun Plans To Leave for Bar Harbor.

The Honorary Counselor of the Danish Legation, Mr. Constantin Brun, who for many years was Minister of Denmark in Washington, will leave the Capital Thursday to open his summer home in Bar Harbor.

The Naval Attache of the Spanish Embassy and Senora de Monreal have moved from Highwood, the home of Mrs. Henry Corbin, which has recently been rented to the Secretary of War and Mrs. George H. Dern, and are at the Chevy Chase Club until they leave for a summer vacation.

The Financial Counselor of the British Embassy and Mrs. Bewley will sail the end of July for England to remain until September.

The First Secretary of the Canadian Legation and Mrs. Merchant Mahoney will leave Washington on June 21 for Canada where Mrs. Mahoney and their children will spend the summer. Mr. Mahoney will join them for a short vacation later in the summer.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Norment left Washington yesterday for New York, whence Mr. Norment will sail on Wednesday aboard the Majestic to spend the summer in Europe. Mrs. Norment will return to Washington Saturday to be here for several weeks before joining Mr. Norment.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter C. B. Morse are spending several weeks at Hot Springs, as the guests of their nephew, Mr. Joseph J. Ryan. They are returning to Washington after the middle of the month when Mr. Ryan sails for Japan.

Mrs. Gwyn and Party Return From Florida.

Mrs. Childress Buckner Gwyn, Miss Mary Beatrice Gwyn and Master Gwyn Harper, who have been touring Florida for the past two months, have returned home. At Daytona Beach Mrs. and Miss Gwyn were guests at a luncheon given by the U. D. C. Chapter, in honor of Mrs. David Shultz, wife of the Governor of Florida, and also at the twenty-fourth birthday luncheon given by the Abigail Bartholomew Chapter, D. A. R., and while in Tampa, Mrs. Gwyn gave a resume of the American work done by the District D. A. R. at a tea given for her by the DeSoto Chapter, D. A. R.

Louise Coburn Smith, of Washington, has been chosen to award senior honors at the class day exercises of Colby College (Maine) on Saturday. Miss Smith is the daughter of George Otis Smith, chairman of the Federal Power Commission, and prepared for Colby at Friends and Miss Madeira's schools. At college she has been prominent in many lines of work. In her freshman year she represented her class on the Student League cabinet. She has participated in all sports and won the Colby Health League emblem for her proficiency. In dramatics she has taken part in several student productions and was made a member of the Masque.

Last year Miss Smith was one of the two Colby delegates to the New England Student Government Conference at Smith College. This spring she was chosen to serve as maid of honor to the May queen at the annual May festival. Miss Smith is a member of the Sigma Kappa sorority.

Chest Payments Behind 1932 Mark

Payments on Community Chest pledges as of May 31 are considerably behind those of 1932, both in the amount of money collected and in the percentage of the total amount paid, according to figures made public yesterday by William J. Flather, jr., treasurer of the Chest. The difference in actual dollars and cents was to be expected in view of the discrepancy between the amount pledged in 1932 and that pledged for 1933.

Mr. Flather's report shows that up to May 31 a total of $1,247,538.38 has been paid on current pledges, or 62.82 per cent of the total amount pledged. At the same time in 1932 there had been paid in $1,649,356.09, or 68.18 per cent of the total amount pledged. Campaign pledges for 1932 amounted to approximately $2,417,000 while for 1933 they totaled only approximately $1,915,000.

The Meanderer

Thinks Electric Fans Worthy Items for the Shopper; Discovers Attractive Values in June Dress Sale.

Telephone questions on The Meanderer's column to The Washington Post, National 4205, Extension 19; or address The Meanderer, The Washington Post, inclosing self-addressed, stamped envelope for reply.

An oscillating electric fan, 10-inch size, suited to either current in the residential district, at the low price of $8.49, is about as worthy a topic for consideration these days as the Meanderer could find. This fan, featured by a drug store in nearly every neighborhood, sold last year for $10.98.

"Street chiffons," a style-wise young proprietor of a shop near Connecticut avenue and L street, calls some dark prints in chiffon which she is featuring this week at prices surprisingly low. Then she has also some most attractive cotton voiles that resemble chiffons. The coloring of blues, browns and greens with white in the voile prints is in desirable patterns, and of course the voiles are washable. The voile frocks, finished well enough for street or afternoon wear, are marked $5.98 and $7.50.

White silk pique faille makes a refreshingly attractive dress and short cape for venturing forth to meet the Washington summer. The material manages to be of rich quality and yet cool in its weight. A sun dress of the white faille has a cleverly cut open back and an adjustable front neckline. The short white cape ties at the throat. This dress is a splendid value at $10.75. Displayed beside the white cape dress is white bouclé, size 40, in modish lines, with a graceful hand knitted lace collar in wide jabot effect. The Meanderer was surprised to see $19.75 was the price of this expensive-looking white knit gown.

If none of the prices mentioned above fit expenditure planned for an additional summer dress, how about a pert plaid seersucker dress with a natural color linen swagger coat, both of the garments selling together for $3.95? This practical ensemble is also in the little shop.

For your gayer summer hours, a candy-striped chiffon lawn party or dancing frock will cost you only $12.50 in this shop or a red and white handkerchief linen print with refreshing touches of embroidered white dotted Swiss is just $10.75.

Pique turbans, so much the mode, are $1.95, and large rough or smooth straws in white or colors will cost about $5 in the same shop where the economical dresses may be found.

Since Meanderings readers took so much interest in the leaflet on the etiquette of serving wine and the "Seven Menus for Beer Suppers," offered to all who send their self-addressed stamped envelope, the Meanderer feels that additional material on wine serving—concerning the decanting, details of serving and temperatures—will be certain to be of interest also. Through the courtesy of the manager of one of Washington's largest and best established grocery stores, the Meanderer has available extensive information of this sort, too extensive for publishing in this column. Any reader who would like to have the additional, more detailed information on wine serving now available may send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for it. Or, of course, any one desiring the etiquette list for serving wine, and the beer menus, previously offered, as well as the additional wine information may send in a request for the three leaflets. Authority for this material the Meanderer has to offer is in each case from undisputed sources.

Heart Attack Fatal To New York Broker

Greenwich, Conn., June 11 (A.P.).—Harry L. Moore, New York broker, died suddenly today at his home in Rock Ridge, Greenwich, after suffering a heart attack. He was 51 years old.

DEVELOPING A SQUEEZE.

BRIDGE players have at least one thing in common with mankind in general. Excessive prosperity is apt to have a disastrous effect on them. A wealth of honor-tricks is apt to make them forget the important part which distribution plays in the making of high contracts—or even low ones. It must be conceded, of course, that when the combined hands contain 8 honor-tricks and 11 tricks in top cards, the partnership can not be blamed if it reaches a Small Slam. Generally speaking, such a wealth of honor-tricks, particularly when the combined hands contain two six-card suits, should easily develop the twelfth trick somewhere. However, there is still one vital factor to be considered, and that is ease of communication between the combined hands.

A hand recently played in a Duplicate game in New York City gives point to these observations. The various contracts ranged from six clubs and six diamonds up to, in a few instances, seven notrump; in fact, the hand developed almost as great a variety of bids and final declarations as there were tables. As the cards lie, there is but one safe Slam contract, and that safe only if West doubles; namely, six diamonds. However, one player, Mr. Gerald Groesbeck, by a clever squeeze play, managed to fulfill a contract of six notrump. The bidding by which this contract was reached and the play by which it was fulfilled were as follows:

South, Dealer.
North and South, vulnerable.

South	West	North	East

Mr. Groesbeck

Mr. Groesbeck
The bidding:

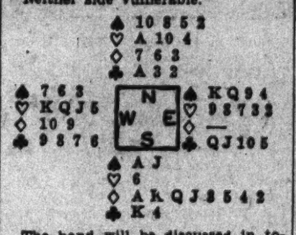
The Opening lead was a heart, which Mr. Groesbeck won with the Ace. Then he took stock of the situation and decided to adopt one safety measure to make more probable the success of his contract. Hence the play to the second trick was the club Queen. This East won with the King, and now East had an opportunity, by a brilliant play, to defeat the contract. However, to East it appeared utter folly to lead up to the six-card diamond suit in the Dummy, and so he returned a heart, Mr. Groesbeck winning with the King. Next the Ace and Knave of clubs were cashed. Since West failed to follow on the two clubs, South now saw his remaining chances of making the contract dependent upon a favorable break in diamonds, failing which there might be the alternative of a squeeze if the hand that held the long diamonds also held four spades. The Ace of spades was won, and South now led his only diamond. West played the Ten, and the trick was won with the Ace. Two more rounds of diamonds and the high heart followed. Since East retained the high club, South discarded on the heart and diamonds his remaining cards in that suit. West, with three spades and one diamond left in his hand, was squeezed when the heart was led; the diamonds in Dummy made it absolutely impossible for him to retain a spade stopper.

I said that six diamonds doubled should be made. This, of course, is based on the assumption that West had made the Double and that the Declarer, seeing the cards in the South hand, must assume that West was doubling on a diamond trick, plus possibly the club King. The first round of diamonds must, in such a case, be led from the South hand, and the 7 finessed if West does not split his honors. So played, six diamonds must be made on the hand, as, in fact, it was.

TOMORROW'S HAND.

If, as South, you were playing a contract of seven diamonds and knew that East held the spade King, and if West had opened the heart King, how would you plan the play of the hand?

South, Dealer.
Neither side vulnerable.



The hand will be discussed in tomorrow's article.

Exiled Socialist Editor Dies

Paris, June 11 (A.P.).—Claudio Treves, 64, exiled anti-Fascist editor, formerly a Socialist leader in the Italian Parliament, died here today of a heart attack after his return home from a memorial meeting to Giocoma Matteotti, slain Italian Socialist deputy. Signor Treves presided at the memorial meeting.

Baker Will Direct U. S. Relief Parley

Detroit, June 11 (A.P.).—Announcement that Newton D. Baker, former Secretary of War, will serve as chairman of the 1933 mobilization for human needs, a Nation-wide mobilization of welfare services scheduled to begin October 29, was made here today at the closing session of the Conference of Community Chests and Councils, Inc.

Detailed plans for the movement will be made at a convention of welfare and civic leaders at Washington, D. C., in September. The mobilization will end November 19.

Allen T. Burns, executive director of the Community Chest organization, said the purpose of the mobilization is not the raising of funds for national relief, but the coordination of social service organizations and presentation to the public of the necessity of supporting local agencies.

"GEMINI."

If June 12 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 9:20 a. m. to 10:45 a. m., from 2:35 p. m. to 3:55 p. m. and from 8 p. m. to 9 p. m. The danger periods are from 11:45 a. m. to 1 p. m. and from 6:20 p. m. to 7:30 p. m.

The child born on this June 12 will quite possibly show great aptitude in either painting or music. He will not be a rugged little one nor athletically inclined; his pastimes will be enjoyed mostly indoors. He will learn much from his readings, which will be extensive.

If June 12 is your birthday, you are no doubt a person who goes right out and gets what he wants; you are direct in your method. There is little subtlety in your make-up. You love show and if you become wealthy, you will be inclined to make a display of your power and possessions. You are interested in establishing yourself socially and more often than not you boast of your social triumphs; particularly is this true of the women born on this date.

If June 12 is the date of your birth, you probably are a lover of speed; you think rapidly, come rapidly to conclusions and act upon them with equal speed. You must take care not to rush into things before your plans are sufficiently matured to assure of success. You have little patience with delays or reverses of your plans; when blocked in any way you "fly off the handle" and are a generally difficult person to be around.

Successful people born on June 12:
John Blair Smith, educator.
George Bush, theologian.
John Young, lawyer and congressman.

What does it take TO SATISFY?

Has Chesterfield got it?

A Fair Question and a Fair Answer

For a Cigarette to Satisfy—

It must have the right kind of tobaccos.
We honestly believe that the tobaccos used in CHESTERFIELD cigarettes are of better quality (and hence of better taste) than in any other cigarette at the price.

It must be made right; uniform, well-filled—no particles of tobacco getting into your mouth; no hard and soft places.

It must have the right flavor and aroma—
the right amount of aromatic Turkish.

It must reach you just as fresh as if you passed by the factory door.

CHESTERFIELD has what it takes to satisfy. Just try them.

NATS POUND OUT 19 HITS TO CRUSH MACKS, 13-6

This Morning with Shirley L. Povich

THE American League's vital statistics are very enlightening this morning. The chief item of interest is the deflation of the Yankees' league lead from six games earlier in the week to 3½ games at the present writing.

The Yanks were making some serious runaway motions at the turn of last week-end when they had run up a six-game advantage over the second place Nats, but they ran into a squall in Philadelphia where they lost 3 out of 4 games, and the even break with the Red Sox in Boston yesterday was quite gratifying to the rest of the league.

It was beginning to look as if the Nats must overhaul the Yanks by their own efforts against the New York Club. They had been getting very little assistance from Philadelphia previous to last week. Eight times the Yanks had met the A's and eight times they had knocked them over. But the A's and the Red Sox drove two mighty blows at the Yanks to help tighten the race to a point where the lead can change hands at the first sign of a slump by New York.

Route for Pitchers Lost 5 Games.

A noticeable turn for the better has been observed among the Nats' pitching staff. Cronin's twirlers have set something of a league record for themselves, if not for the rest of the league, this year, by going the route in their last five games.

A nine-inning pitcher was a rarity for the Nats during their recent Western trip or the long home stay. Three, four and five pitchers to a game was the rule. But recent performances have been encouraging.

After the debacle at Philadelphia early last week, Thomas, Russell, Whitehill and Stewart each survived nine innings against the Red Sox, with Thomas the only loser. Crowder added the fifth full-route game against the A's yesterday. The pitching seems to be coming around.

Club Batting Average Is Now .292.

But it has been the hitting which is keeping the Nats in their present berth within shouting distance of the Yanks. For the past month the Washington club has topped the team hitting standings and this morning can show a club batting average of .292, which explains a great deal.

None of the regulars is hitting below .290. The entire outfield is comfortably above .300, as is Joe Cronin. The Nats are a hitting club this season, above all else.

Goslin has zoomed up into the select circle of .300 hitters during the past few days with an impressive display of his old-time power at the plate. His three hits Saturday and his four hits yesterday were a welcome shot in the arm for his average.

Fred Schulte bounced back among the leading five with his .360 average and Cronin is walloping the ball at a .316 gait. Goslin's mark is .315, with Heinie Manush, hitting safely in his last 18 games, having brought his figure to .305.

RUNS, HITS AND ERRORS.

The A's signals from the dugout to the bull pen are unique . . . Rommel motions the relief twirlers into the box . . . he wanted little Bob Coombs yesterday, so he held his arm out about two feet off the ground, to denote that Coombs was the choice . . . both arms spread apart used to be the sign for Hippo Dowell Claset . . . now sojourning in Baltimore . . . the A's pitchers have taken a sound thumping in their last eight games . . . allowing 63 runs . . . or a shade less than eight per game . . . is that pitching, or just throwing? . . . Connie Mack probably has his own well-defined opinion . . . among other things, they couldn't keep Alvin Crowder off the bases yesterday . . . he made a hit, reached first on an error, once on a force-out and once on a safe fielder's choice . . . Bill McGowan missed one at the plate in the fifth . . . Peterson tagged Sewell, all right, but not until after Sewell had tagged the plate.

Burke Named On Ryder Team

Selection Surprises in View of 305 Card in Open.

P. G. A. Picks Former Champ for Tenth Place on Team.

NEW YORK, June 11 (A.P.).—Billy Burke, former national open golf champion, tonight was named to the tenth place on the American Ryder Cup team.

The appointment, announced by George R. Jacobus, president of the Professional Golfers Association of America, came as a surprise, particularly in view of Burke's failure to finish in the money in the 1933 open, concluded yesterday at Chicago. Burke scored 305 for the 72-hole jaunt and landed in a tie for thirty-third place.

Burke's Case Caused Controversy.

The P. G. A.'s failure to include Burke when the team was selected several months ago aroused a storm of protest among his fellow pros, particularly Gene Sarazen. Nine members of the team were selected at that time with the tenth place left open for the winner of this year's left open in the event he turned out to be a native-born professional not already named to the squad.

The sensational victory of the Omaha amateur, Johnny Goodman, upset this arrangement, but the executive committee and tournament committee of the P. G. A. decided that Burke should be given the tenth place.

Brown and Dartmouth Heal Football Breach

Hanover, N. H., June 11 (A.P.).—Brown will replace Pennsylvania on the Dartmouth football schedule in 1935, it was announced tonight by the Dartmouth Athletic Council.

The Indians will discontinue gridiron relations with the Quakers after next fall and Virginia has been given the mid-October date on the Indians' 1934 schedule.

In resuming their traditional relations in 1935, Dartmouth will play Brown at Providence on October 19 and these rivals will resume their former home-and-home basis in 1936, when Brown visits Hanover.

The Dartmouth-Brown football series, formerly one of the highlights of the New England football season, includes 24 games. Dartmouth has won 12, Brown 11 and the other was a tie contest. These rivals last met in Providence in 1929, when Dartmouth broke the deadlock with a 13-6 victory.

Hannon Wins Car Race; Jack Dempsey Referee

Woodbridge, N. J., June 11 (U.P.).—Johnny Hannon, daring young Irishman from Conshohocken, Pa., made a bid for the Eastern driving championship today when he won the 25-mile event here today.

Hannon covered the distance in 27 minutes, 15 1-5 seconds, beating out Ira Hall, who finished second after having motor trouble. Jack Dempsey, former heavyweight boxing champion, refereed the races.

New World Mark Is Set By Japanese Swimmer

Tokyo, June 11 (A.P.).—Reizo Koike, a member of Japan's Olympic champion swimming team, today swam the 200-meters breast stroke in 3 minutes 44.2 seconds, claimed as a new world record for 50-meter pools.

The listed world's record for the 200-meters breast stroke, 2:46.6, was set by Leonard Spence in a 25-yard pool at Chicago in 1931.

Goodman Another Jones, U. S. G. A. Official Says

Drowned

JOCKEY EUGENE JAMES.

'He's Got Everything,' Is Tribute Paid to New Champion.

CHICAGO, June 11 (A.P.).—Those big empty shoes of amateur golf, vacated three years ago by Bobby Jones after he had scored his grand slam, at last seemed to be filled.

Johnny Goodman, the orphan "kid" from Omaha and newly crowned king of American golf, has stepped into them.

"He's another Jones and make no mistake about that," remarked a high official of the United States Golf Association at North Shore yesterday long before Johnny had posted his championship score of 287. "He's got everything, just like Bobby, including that magic putting touch that made Jones the greatest golfer the world had ever known."

Goodman Is Paid Tribute.

Quite a tribute from the official body of American golf that almost broke the giant killer's heart only last year by refusing him a berth on the Walker Cup team, but it was sincere and happily given.

When word was flashed to the U. S. G. A. headquarters in the clubhouse that Ralph Guldahl, the husky Norseman from St. Louis, had missed that four-foot putt on the final green to lose his chance to tie, officials were among the first to give Johnny that big handshake and slap his back. Even the famous Jones never received a warmer handshake of congratulations. Johnny, at the crest at last after many disappointing years, was "in."

Although the 23-year-old Nebraskan always has been a great favorite of the professionals, no little discouragement was evident among their ranks as he stepped forward to accept the ancient trophy, emblem of the American golf championship.

RIDER JAMES IS DROWNED IN LAKE

Boy Led Burgoo King To Win Both Derby and Preakness.

CHICAGO, June 11 (A.P.).—Eugene James, 20-year-old jockey, who reached the goal of all riders—a victory in the Kentucky Derby, on Col. Edward R. Bradley's Burgoo King last year—lost his life in Lake Michigan today.

James, a native of Louisville, Ky., went on to ride Burgoo King to another triumph in the Preakness, and was ranked as one of the country's finest riders until ill health took him out of the saddle.

Unable to sleep because of the heat, James, with two companions, Michael Farr, associated with the matchmaking department of the Chicago Stadium operating company, and Sam Hogan, former lightweight boxer, went to the Oak street beach to cool off.

Body Is Recovered In 5 Minutes.

After arriving at the beach James decided to take a dip in the lake. He stripped down to his shorts and dove in. Hogan followed him a moment later. James, after swimming out about 200 feet, suddenly disappeared from sight.

Neither Farr nor Hogan heard a cry for help, and the young rider did not reappear, indicating he had died of shock or a heart attack. His body was recovered within five minutes, but efforts to revive him were unavailing.

CLEVELAND, June 11 (A.P.).—The Cleveland Indians, playing their first game under the managership of Walter Johnson, barely managed to give the "Big Train" an opening victory today by scoring one run in the tenth inning to defeat St. Louis, 1 to 0.

Oral Hildebrand singled after two were out in the extra inning, to drive in Joe Vosmik with the winning run.

Jolley Stars as Sox Win, 11 to 9, After Bowing, 8 to 7.

BOSTON, June 11 (A.P.).—The New York Yankees and the Boston Red Sox broke even in a twin bill today, the Yankees annexing the first, 8 to 7, and losing the second, 11 to 9.

The games were featured by prolific hitting and loose fielding and were witnessed by 30,000 persons, the largest crowd to watch the Red Sox cavort here in several years.

Both games were won on the late inning surges. The Yankees were on the short end of a 7-to-5 score going into their half of the ninth in the first game. Gehrig poled his thirteenth home run of the season into the center-field bleachers, and then Chapman followed with a blow that sent the ball over the left-field wall. This tied the score at 7-all.

Johnson's Error Costly.

Lazzeri then struck out, but Dickey singled to right and went to third as Roy Johnson booted the hit. Lary, running for Dickey, then scored as Roy Johnson muffed a fly ball hit by Pinch Hitter Rufing.

NAT-RED SOX DEAL FALLS THROUGH

Cronin Team to Rest Today; Meets A's Here Tomorrow.

By FRANK H. YOUNG.

NOTHING developed in the proposed trade which the Boston Red Sox wanted to make with the Nationals. The Beaneaters submitted a proposition to Manager Joe Cronin in Boston Saturday and, although the latter could not see it, he promised to talk to President Clark Griffith about it. The conference was held here yesterday, after which the Nat owner announced that there was nothing doing.

Just what players were mentioned is not known but the one or two good ones which the Sox have they probably feel they should keep—for a team can not build up by tearing down—and it is a certainty that the Nats could not use any of the tail-ender's second-stringers, not to mention the fact that Cronin has no available trading material.

The Nats and Mackmen loaf here today and meet again tomorrow in the last game scheduled here until July 7. Alphonse (Tommy) Thomas probably will do the flinging for the natives, with George (Rube) Walberg likely to oppose him on the mound.

Vice President John Garner is proving to be quite a fan. He was on hand yesterday.

When Manush singled opening round 6 it marked the eighteenth consecutive game in which he had hit safely at least once.

Dr. Daniel L. Borden, president of the G. W. Alumni, was host at a box party yesterday. "It was the Foxx Knocks Homer; Yanks' Lead Cut to 3½ Games.

By SHIRLEY L. POVICH
(Sports Editor of The Post).

THE Nats developed another case of slug-nuttiness yesterday and went batty to the extent of 19 hits against four punch-drunk Philadelphia pitchers. The upshot of the matter was that they pried loose a 13-6 ball game from the Athletics. Twelve thousand hit-soaked citizens reveled in the goings-on.

The statistics, compiled by arclight, show that the Nats made nine extra base hits, seven of 'em doubles, one of 'em a triple and one of 'em a home run for a grand total of 31 bases to amass a lead that even Alvin Crowder couldn't pitch away, try as he might, particularly in the early innings.

Fred Schulte Leads With Bat.

Out of the welter of base knocks emerged a couple of Washington heroes whose names led all the rest. The No. 1 gentleman of the afternoon was Ferocious Fred Schulte, who smacked out two doubles and an in-the-park home run that netted him six runs driven in for the day. The No. 2 performer for Mr. Griffith's side was Galloping Goose Goslin, who also had a very large afternoon with a single and three consecutive doubles that saw him drive in three runs and score four himself.

All this tended to close the gap between the second-place Nats and the first-place Yankees, who committed a split of a double-header with the socking Red Sox in Boston and saw their lead reduced to 3½ games. Earlier in the week they were making runaway motions with a six-game lead over the Nats. So the afternoon was very productive from a Washington viewpoint.

The A's, fresh from three victories in four games with the Yanks, were away to a merry start against the Nats with a pair of runs in the first inning, but, if the truth be known, they were foredoomed. Eight times previously this season the Philadelphia Club had engaged in Sunday combat and eight times they had been defeated. They haven't won a Sabbath battle this season and the Blue Laws that prevent them from playing on Sunday in Philadelphia, and gives them a few Sunday open dates, may be heaven-sent.

Leroy Mahaffey, grand marshal who led the parade of Philadelphia pitchers which saw Tony Freitas, Jim Peterson and young Bob Coombs bringing up the rear in the later innings, dissipated his two-run lead in the first inning and the Nats

Phils Nip Giants, 7-5; 2 Homers for Vergez

New York's 6-Game Winning Streak Is Broken.

NEW YORK, June 11 (A.P.).—The Phillies shattered the Giants' six-game winning streak today by laying down a barrage of hits against Hal Schumacher in the fourth inning to score six runs and win the final game of the series, 7 to 5. The Giants, however, took the series from the tail enders, two games to one.

Jumbo Jim Elliott became the first left-hander to beat the Giants on their home grounds this season when this one big inning carried him through. He yielded 11 hits, but only Johnny Verges could make much use of the blows. Johnny walloped two home runs and drove in four of the five Giant tallies. The first homer came in the second inning with two aboard, the second with empty bases in the sixth. Sam Leslie drove in the other Giant tally with a single.

RACE DRIVER KILLED.

Amarillo, Tex., June 11 (A.P.).—F. M. Knox, 33, Kansas City racing driver, was killed in the crash of his special model car in the Southwest Auto Racing Association meet at the Tristate Fair Ground track today.

The car overturned three times, end over end, after colliding with another machine. Knox's neck was broken.

Wrestling Leg Show In New York Tonight

Browning, Savoldi in Aerial Battle of Trained Legs.

NEW YORK, June 11 (U.P.)—One of the greatest "leg shows" in mat history will be staged tomorrow night at Yankee Stadium when Jim Browning defends his claim to the world heavyweight wrestling championship in a finish match against "Jumping Joe" Savoldi.

Legs will be all important in this bout between the two of the most spectacular showmen of grappling's slapstick era. It will be an aerial battle of legs between Browning's airplane scissors and Savoldi's flying drop kick.

Both of these young men have spent more time and effort in developing their legs than any Russian ballerina, and the result reflects their methods of preparation.

Simmons' Hits Let White Sox, Detroit Divide

Chicago, June 11 (A.P.).—Al Simmons slugged Chicago to a 6 to 1 victory over Detroit in the first game of a doubleheader today, but the Tigers, aided by four errors, took the nightcap, 5 to 3. The Sox, however, climbed back into third place as Washington defeated Philadelphia.

Simmons rapped off his eighth and ninth home runs of the season, and had a pair of singles to drive in all the Chicago runs in the first game.

The Tigers scored four unearned runs in the second game to give Schoolboy Rowe another victory over the White Sox.

HURRY OFF'S 1933 EARNINGS $50,065; BROKER'S TIP SECOND

Head Play 3d In List for Year

Mr. Khayyam Next and The Darb 5th Money Winner.

Surprise Victory in Belmont Stakes Gives Edge.

LOUISVILLE, KY., June 11 (A.P.).—Joseph E. Widener's Hurry Off, by winning the Belmont Stakes, wrested the lead from Broker's Tip, Col. E. R. Bradley's Kentucky Derby victor, in the list of leading 3-year-old money winners.

Hurry Off's surprise victory in the Belmont gave him total winnings this year of $50,065. Broker's Tip's total is $49,000, and is likely to remain at that figure, as he went lame in the Preakness.

Mrs. Silas Mason's Head Play, winner of the Preakness, is third in the list, with $36,950 won this year; the Catawba Stable's Mr. Khayyam, American Derby victor, is fourth, with $35,351, and C. V. Whitney's The Darb, winner of the Withers mile, fifth, with $21,600.

NET TITLE TO MANGIN.

New York, June 11 (A.P.).—Gregory S. Mangin, of Newark, today defeated Frank Bowden, of New York, 2—6, 6—1, 6—2, 6—3, in the final round of the annual Brooklyn tennis tournament.

U. S. VS. ARGENTINA.

Buenos Aires, June 11 (A.P.).—On his arrival here from the United States last night, Adriano Zappa, captain of the Argentine Davis Cup team, said a North American team probably would visit Argentina, in November to compete in the national tennis championships.

Mid-Atlantic Golf Fight Between D. C., Baltimore

Billy Howell, Richmond Ace, Not to Compete; Congressional Plans Tourney; Results of Events at District Clubs.

By DAVE HERMAN.

BILLY HOWELL of Richmond, Va., 1931 national amateur semifinalist, and former Walker Cup star, will not be a participant in the Middle Atlantic Association golf championship slated to get under way this Wednesday at the Rolling Road Club, Catonsville, Md.

This became known last night when Howell, winner of the title in 1930 and 1931, and counted on as the big threat this season decided to pass up the historic Middle Atlantic in favor of the Southern amateur championship. It was also learned that few Virginians contemplate competing.

With Howell definitely out of the chase, the battle for laurels looms largely between District and Baltimore stars, one of the latter brigade, Ernie Caldwell, of Hillendale, being the defending champion.

Congressional Country Club officials, looking forward to their invitation tournament June 20, 21, 22, 23, yesterday announced that the course would be open for practice rounds for out-of-town contestants on Sunday, with Monday reserved for local entries. The entry list closes Saturday morning.

Dr. S. D. Gottlieb provided the big thrill as the first round of the handicap championship tournament came to a close at Woodmont yesterday.

Six down at the turn to Samuel Kaufman, Dr. Gottlieb unleashed his heavy artillery, to win five successive holes and triumph on the eighteenth by one up. Dr. Gottlieb and Jack Shulman, each with a 86 net, shared honors in the medal handicap round last week.

Bill Ilich took a close struggle from Fulton Brylawski on the twentieth hole.

Here are the results:

Dr. S. D. Gottlieb beat Samuel Kaufman, 1 up; H. M. Shapiro beat Bob Baumman, 2 and 1; A. E. Steinem beat Morris Goldstein, 1 up; Gilbert Hahn beat Maurice Sherman, 2 and 1; E. Harris beat Arthur Stephen, 6 and 5, Henry Bresleau beat Jack Shulman, 6 an 5; William Ilich beat Fulton Brylawski, 1 up, 20 holes; Melvin Kraft beat Ralph Goldsmith by default.

Mrs. Jerome Meyer and Melvin Kraft, with 90-10—80, were deadlocked for the first prize with Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Hahn, who had 95-15—80 in the mixed foursome event at Woodmont yesterday.

Dr. S. D. Gottlieb and Miss Bertha Israel were second, with 99-15—84.

Only two second round matches were played in the Tribal Bowl tournament at Indian Spring. Craig McKee, medalist, beat Arthur Urban, one up, and Tom Belshe defeated L. A. Strong, 3 and 1.

By way of tuning up for the Middle Atlantic at Rolling Road, Roger Peacock, District champion, yesterday blazed away for a 36, 34—70, 1 below par. He played with William R. Stone.

Mr. and Mrs. N. Waldron, with a combined total of 197, captured first low gross prize in the husband and wife golf tournament at Beaver Dam. Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Mitchell, with 202, were second; Mr. and Mrs. A. Tucker, third, with 207, and Mr. and Mrs. W. J. LaBille, fourth, with 208.

Mr. and Mrs. R. N. Trezise took first low net with 208—40—168. Other winners were Mr. and Mrs. R. Kelly, 223—53—170; Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Lewis, 226—56—170, and Mr. and Mrs. R. Wever, 238—67—171.

The consolation prize went to Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Winter, with 348—52—296.

Close matches featured the third round of the annual two-man team championship at Manor yesterday, with favorites winning.

G. W. Shafer and Frank Smith reached the semifinals by beating A. B. Alley and J. J. Buckley, 3 and 1. John Raney and H. K. Beck advanced by defeating Bob Perry and F. M. Grogan, 4 and 3; R. P. Gibson and Harry Grier beat James North and C. V. Darby, 2 and 1, and M. L. Keogh and Jack Tucker, jr., turned back E. F. Wesley and R. MacClayton, 1 up.

In the blind bogey for men at Manor, 74 proved the lucky number. E. J. Carver, with 74—4, and Col. C. D. Strom, with 88—14, shared first prize honors. David L. Thomson, with 83—8—75, and G. C. Garber, with 100—25—75, tied for second prize. S. C. Rose, with 110—30—80, took third, and R. MacClayton, with 80—7—73, and George Landrick, with 84—14—73, shared fourth honors.

With a net of 35 each, Mrs. A. B. Stone, Mrs. H. J. Simons, Mrs. G. M. Mulligan, and Mrs. R. R. Hollingsworth, tied for first in the women's 9-hole blind bogey. Mrs. L. G. Fray, Mrs. B. C. Hartig and Mrs. W. Cramer, each with 38, tied for second. Mrs. Mack Meyer, with 16 putts, won the putting contest.

Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Cooper, teamed yesterday at Kenwood to win the mixed Scotch foursome with 105—32—73. Second low net went to Mrs. J. Jester and her son Jack, who shot 92—17—75.

Virginia Pope, District junior champion, and Royce Hough, won the gross prize with an 86.

Over at Kenwood Al Houghton rang up his fifth straight sub par round. His latest was a 69. He was averaging 67.

Frank Persons, jr., set what is believed to be an unofficial record for amateurs for four consecutive holes yesterday over his course at Washington Golf and Country Club. Young Persons negotiated the quartet in 12 strokes. Par is 17.

While waiting to play the fifteenth, sixteenth and seventeenth with his father, young Persons decided to shoot the sixteenth. This is a par four and is 334 yards. His drive split the middle of the fairway, leaving him a shot of 100 yards home. Persons holed out for an eagle. His dad joined him on the fifteenth, and his putt or his second eagle rimmed the cup and he got a birdie four. He birdied the sixteenth in three and the seventeenth in three.

Tom Hudgins, long-driving Woodmont pro, got red hot on the second nine at Woodmont yesterday, shooting a 33, after making a turn in 41. He had birdies on the tenth, thirteenth and seventeenth.

JOHNSON'S INDIANS BEAT BROWNS, 1-0

Hildebrand, who received credit for the win, had been sent to the mound in the first half of the tenth, after Mel Harder let the Browns fill the bases with only one out.

Twelve thousand fans saw Johnson pitch the first ball today, officially opening his career as pilot of the Indians.

The Tribe's victory was the second time in nine days they have beaten Hadley by the score of 1 to 0. Harder was on the mound on the previous occasion in St. Louis. The current series ended today with the Indians holding the edge, two games to one.

Pirates Down Cardinals Twice

Score 10 Runs in 9th Inning of First to Win by 11 to 7.

ST. LOUIS, June 11 (A.P.).—Snatching victory from an almost hopeless handicap in the first game, 11 to 7, the aggressive Pittsburgh Pirates held the St. Louis Cardinals scoreless in the second game, while they garnered three runs.

The Cardinals had the first game virtually salted away by a 7 to 1 margin in the ninth, when Pittsburgh knocked Bill Hallahan and Tex Carleton from the box. Dizzy Dean finishing.

Dodgers and Braves Split Double-Header

Brooklyn, N. Y., June 11 (A.P.).—The Dodgers lost and then regained sixth place here this afternoon when they divided a double-header with the Boston Braves. A five-run rally in the fifth inning of the first game climaxed by Randy Moore's home run, brought the Braves home by 6 to 4. Cantwell, who relieved a tiring Frankhouse, was the winning pitcher. The Dodgers won the second by 5 to 2

A CYCLONE or an earthquake could not have renovated the standings of the unlimited clubs in the Capital City League more completely than the boys did themselves yesterday.

Dor-A tightened its grasp on the lead by walloping St. Joseph's, 11 to 1, while Congress Heights helped to the extent of upsetting the highly touted Certified Barbers, 8 to 4. Stantons and Colonials moved into a tie for third place, winning over Wolts Photographers, 9 to 0, and Federals, 20 to 8, respectively.

Millers assumed undisputed possession of second place with a 7-to-6 victory over the Griffiths, accomplished with a five-run rally in the ninth inning.

Nats Pound Four Hurlers To Beat Philadelphia, 13-6

gave Crowder a 5-to-2 advantage going into the third. This was pared to 5 to 4 by Jimmy Foxx's home-run and Crowder was on the ragged edge of the shower bath, but he steadied and when the Nats scored four runs in the fifth, it was all over, including the shouting.

Max Bishop chiseled a base on balls out of Crowder to start the fray and the A's had their two runs for the inning after singles by Cramer and Foxx. The Nats came back with three on a double by Myer, singles by Goslin and Cronin, and a double down the third base line by Schulte that Higgins played as if it was going to bite him.

Buddy Myer's triple was the pivotal blow of the Nats' two-run stand in the second. It scored Crowder, whose slowness afoot may have cost Myer a homer on the wallop. Crowder's sprint did him no good when he returned to the mound and Cramer socked a double to center, scoring on two outs. Jimmy Foxx then clouted his home run No. 14 half way up the bleachers in dead center, and it was only 5-4 in favor of the Nats.

Tommy Freitas was pitching when the Nats went slug-nutty again in the fifth. Goslin doubled to center, Cronin beat out a rare bunt to Foxx, and Schulte slammed a ball to the farthest angle in center and beat the throw to the plate for a homer. Bluege singled, Sewell doubled and the Nats had four more runs. Freitas bowed out ingloriously after taking Crowder's tap into the box, trapping Sewell off second and then bouncing the ball off the catcher's dome in the run-down to leave all hands safe.

Jim Peterson was the victim in the seventh when the Nats added another run on Manush's single to left and Goslin's second double. The A's, now far out of it, rallied mildly for two runs in the eighth, with Madjeski and Williams delivered the vital blows.

But the Nats were still hungry for hits and runs. Bob Coombs greeted them in the eighth and Manush greeted the rookie with a single. Goslin greeted him with his third double, Schulte greeted him with his second double and Bluege greeted him with a single. These greetings netted the Nats their eleventh, twelfth and thirteenth runs. There were no more.

SCHOLASTIC PRIZES ARE PRESENTED TO 31 SENIORS AT G.U.

Honors Awarded on Eve of Commencement Today for Class of 510.

With 510 seniors of Georgetown University awaiting their diplomas at the thirteenth annual commencement exercises this afternoon, President Coleman Nevils, S. J., last night awarded special scholastic prizes and medals to 31 members of the graduating class.

A third of these honor seniors were from the District of Columbia. They are Raymond Allen Osbourne, Jack C. Morgan, Leo Nugent McGuire, James F. O'Donnell, William J. Madden, Bartholomew Diggins, Frank W. Govern, Jules A. Demonet, Aaron B. Goldman and Thomas Snowden. An honorable mention was awarded James T. Seavey, also of the District, and Thomas V. Ciagett, of Upper Marlboro, Md., also was among the prize winners.

The Georgetown University R. O. T. C. unit, it was announced yesterday, has just received an "excellent" rating by the War Department, as a result of its recent official inspection. Maj. Gen. Paul B Malone, U. S. A., commanding the Third Corps Area, in a communication to President Nevils, gave the further encouraging report that the Georgetown unit had passed the best inspection in its history.

Ahern Receives Medal.

John W. Ahern, of Texarkana, Ark., and Chevy Chase, Md., who commanded the cadet battalion during the year, was one of the seniors honored last night. He was awarded the Ryan Medal for general excellence in senior examinations at the college.

A feature of the annual Tropaia exercises last night was the presentation of a portrait of St. Apollonia, the patron saint of dentistry, to Dean William N. Cogan of the dental school. Dr. Cogan is national president of the Apollonia Society, a Catholic organization which renders dental aid to children, and the presentation was made by Dr. Fred Jeyes, of Boston, on behalf of the Boston Guild of the national group.

Besides the awarding of scholastic prizes, the annual baccalaureate mass and sermon in the morning, followed by the meeting of the regents, the receptions of the senior class and of President Nevils, brought a large number of alumni to the Hilltop.

The Rev. Philip X. Walsh, S. J., of Woodstock College, Md., preached the sermon to the graduating class. The Rev. Vincent J. Hart, S. J., dean of the college was celebrant, with the Rev. F. Fay Murphy, S. J., deacon and the Rev. Gerald F. Yates, S. J., subdeacon.

"Georgetown makes only one condition, that you be true to her teachings," he said, "as she had been true to you."

Father Walsh deplored the machine age of today as one that has caused man to throw off the restraints imposed by God and that has sunk the human mind to its lowest depth.

Commencement Today.

Commencement exercises will be held at 4:45 p. m. today on the campus, or, in the event of rain, in Constitution Hall. Dr. L. S. Rowe, director general of the Pan American Union and Prof. Joseph Daniel Sullivan of the executive faculty of the Georgetown Law School, will be made honorary doctors of law. Dr. Rowe is on the faculty of the School of Foreign Service.

Scholastic awards were presented last night in the various schools as follows:

College of Arts and Sciences.

Pulaski medal for the student submitting best essay on subject pertaining to Poland—Joseph O. Smith, of Pittsburgh, Pa.

First prize of $75 by faculty for highest scholastic standing in the senior morning class, William F. Fleischer, Kansas City, Mo.; second prize of $40, Thomas V. Ciasetti, Upper Marlboro, Md.

Rev. Thomas Bradbury Chetwood Gold Medal for excellence in graduate studies, Jack C. Morgan, District of Columbia.

Forty dollar faculty prize for the best thesis submitted in the graduate course, Lee Nugent McGuire, District of Columbia. Honorable mention, James T. Seavey, District of Columbia.

Fifty dollar Dean George E. Hamilton prize for the best paper on legal ethics submitted in junior or senior classes, James F. O'Donnell, District of Columbia; honorable mention, Henry L. Paradis, Canton, Ohio, and James T. Clark, Ellicott City, Md.

Four $25 prizes to winners of preliminary law club debates, William J. Madden, District of Columbia; Charles F. MacDonald, Medfield, S. Dak.; Cornelius K. Hurley, Gardner, Mass., and Bartholomew Diggins, District of Columbia.

Fifty dollar prize for winning the final law club debate, Cornelius K. Hurley.

School of Foreign Service.

Prince Albert De Ligne gold medal for the best essay on some phase of Belgian history by students in the course on "History of Europe"—Richard MacMorrow, of Topeka, Kans.

Delta Sigma Pi gold scholarship key, to senior attaining the highest scholastic record throughout entire course—Jacques J. Reinstein, of Savannah, Ga.

Baron Serge A. Korff memorial medal, to the student with the highest general record in either of the two courses on "History of Europe"—Jules A. Karlin, of East Rockaway, N. Y.

Daniel E. Casey prize, to the student in either of the two courses in "Exporting and Importing" attaining the highest average—Jules A. Demonet, District of Columbia.

Edmund A. Walsh gold medal, to the student in the course in "International Law" with the highest general average for the year—Glenn H. Richard, of Seneca, Kans.

W. Coleman Nevils gold medal, to student in the course on "Foreign Relations of the United States" with the highest record for the year—Aaron B. Goldman, District of Columbia.

W. Coleman Nevils silver medal, to the student on "Foreign Relations of the United States" with the second best record for the year—Thomas Snowden, District of Columbia.

William F. Notz gold medal, to the student with the highest record in either of the two courses in "Economic Principles"—Carlton C. Smith, of Cleveland, Ohio.

Jean Labat memorial gold medal, to the graduate whose interest and activity in the promotion of the study of the French language has been most notable—Jacques J. Reinstein, Savannah, Ga.

J. deS. Coutinho medal, to the student who has accomplished most in the advanced Portuguese course—Benjamin F. Modell, of Syracuse, N. Y.

Dr. James Brown Scott prize, for the best paper submitted on "Nationalism and Internationalism" in the seminar on foreign relations—Herbert L. Ganter, of Galveston, Tex.

DR. BOHANAN TREATS OF TRINITY DOCTRINE

Pastor Says There Is Nothing Complicated About Teaching.

Taking for his text "There is One God, and There is None Other but He," Dr. Franklin J. Bohanan, rector of St. Paul's Episcopal Church, Rock Creek, said in his sermon yesterday that many have come to look upon the doctrine of the Trinity as a mysterious doctrine of no practical value in human life, whereas the doctrine is simply an endeavor on the part of the Christian Church to enable man to apprehend the great unity of all things.

"The doctrine of the Trinity has been held by the Christian Church for 2,000 years," he said, "simply because the church feels that instead of a mysterious doctrine it is a short and concise effort on the part of the Christian Church to bring to the mental apprehension of man the far greater mystery of God. We may discard it and think we are getting away from a mysterious doctrine, but we can never get away from the mystery of life.

"The moment we open our eyes there is mystery all about. There is the mystery of the sun, of the air, the rain and the clouds, and, as we grow older, we see the mystery of the intermingling of all things. We see the leaves of the trees, the movement of the waves; we see motion in everything, the planets and the stars, and somehow as we grow older we see all of these forces as parts of one great whole. The more we study and learn, the more it appears that life is one vast machine.

"There are certain wheels of motion from which we can ascertain the definite periods of evolution; we can predict arithmetically the falling of day and night, the seasons of the year and the eclipses of the sun and moon, and so we have become convinced that all is a vast mechanism which must have one mathematical mind.

"We look to the beauties of nature and see the coloring of the leaves, the flowers and the sky and we behold a picture painted by more than a master's hand. That is our first conception of the creator whom we have come to call God.

"All these various acts and movements are the result of the operation of the one God. There is unity in diversity; there is one God who is the creator, the inspirer and leader of man."

Day-Gatling Nuptials Solemnized in Biloxi

Miss Dorothy Day, of 1717 G street northwest, and Mr. Donald B. Gatling, of 705 Eighteenth street northwest, were married yesterday afternoon at Biloxi, Miss., at the church of the Redeemer by the Rev. Mr. Miller.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Gatling are employes of the Federal Trade Commission. Mr. Gatling is an attorney. The couple will motor through the Southern States on their honeymoon and visit at the home of the groom's parents at Forest City, Ark.

Mr. and Mrs. Gatling will make their home in Washington on or about August 1. Mrs. Gatling is the daughter of John F. Day, of Bethlehem, Pa.

Man Near Death Tells Of Attempt at Suicide

Near death in Casualty Hospital with a bullet in his chest, Miller W. Wheeler, 54, is said to have told police he attempted to take his life yesterday, while in a second-floor room at 715 G street southeast.

Physicians indicated he had little chance to recover, as the bullet lodged near his heart. Police were unable to learn the man's reason for his act.

Garage Leap

After Battering Head on Wall Lands Man in Hospital, Seriously Hurt.

Emil Kohler, of 1016 D street southeast, is in critical condition at Casualty Hospital suffering from a fractured skull, received, police say, when he twice leaped from atop a garage at the rear of his home, after battering his head against a brick wall.

Unable to explain his actions, Kohler was taken to the hospital in a semi-conscious condition after alarmed neighbors summoned police. Witnesses said the man first ran into a brick wall, violently crashing his head against the side. He later climbed to the roof of a one-story garage, leaped head first to the pavement, arose and again climbed to the garage roof and jumped.

LOVE LEADS TO DUEL AND MAN'S SHOOTING

Two Rivals Shoot It Out in Dark Room; One Wounded in Arm; Both Held.

A gun battle last night in a darkened second-floor room at 740 Ninth street northwest was climaxed with one of the participants being taken to Gallinger Hospital, a bullet in his arm, and his foeman's arrest.

John McDonnell, 42, address unknown, who is said to have climbed a fire escape to "get" Norman J. Pryor, after firing several shots at the latter from an alley in the rear of the Ninth street address, was wounded in the arm when the two "shot it out" in Pryor's room.

For some time, police learned, the two men had nursed a grudge, growing from mutual affections for a young woman. Last night McDonnell is said to have gone to Pryor's room and demanded entrance. When refused, he is alleged to have gone to the rear of the house, waited until Pryor appeared at a window and opened fire.

Pryor, police said, ducked back into his room and switched off the lights. McDonnell, meanwhile, climbed a fire escape to the open window. Both men, police declared, started to fire as McDonnell stepped over the sill into the room.

When the smoke cleared and lights were again flashed on, McDonnell was found holding his wounded arm. Police first took him to Casualty Hospital, later transferring him to Gallinger under a charge of investigation. Pryor was also held on the same charge.

VENDORS PROTESTED IN ZONED DISTRICTS

Commissioners to Consider Board of Trade Complaints Soon.

A protest against the operation of hucksters in residential sections barred to stores, made last week by the National Board of Trade, will be considered by the District Commissioners this month, it was learned yesterday.

Referring to the hucksters as rolling stores, the protest stated that they apparently have no sanitary regulations as are imposed on the usual type of stores. The transient vendors, the protest alleged, are not particular about weights and measures.

"Hucksters frequently leave refuse on the streets, such as vegetables and leaves, and fish peddlers are not at all particular in scaling and cleaning their wares," it stated.

Stating that in its belief huckstering in many restricted zones in this city is a violation of the zoning code, the board asked for a ruling by the Commissioners. The protest lodged with the Commissioners asserted that some hucksters sell and deliver beer in violation of the law.

It further objected to the unnecessary noises caused by the vendors and the traffic difficulties arising from the double parking of vending vehicles.

Capital Woman Leaps To Death From Hotel

Miss Catherine Dietz Dictates Suicide Story to Reporter Then Jumps Out Window of New York Hostelry.

Miss Catherine Dietz, 34, of 1522 Twenty-third street southeast, jumped to her death from the eighteenth floor of the Hotel Taft in New York ten minutes after she calmly dictated a suicide story to a newspaper office yesterday afternoon, according to an Associated Press dispatch.

"Do you want a story about a suicide?" she queried the reporter over the telephone, and without waiting for any comment, dictated: "Mrs. Arthur F. Roy committed suicide today after taking 36 tablets of poison, and then she leaped to her death from her room on the eighteenth floor."

Without waiting for an answer she hung up. When the call was traced and police reached the scene, the body was found on a second-floor extension of the hotel building. Several guests at the hotel saw Miss Dietz falling.

She was registered as Mrs. Arthur F. Roy. Her mother, Mrs. Anna L. Dietz, stated that she had received a letter from her last Monday and although it intimated that she was discouraged, it contained no intention of suicide.

Miss Dietz had been in New York for several months working as a telephone operator at the Phi Gamma Delta Club. She recently moved from a room on the ninth floor of the hotel to one on the eighteenth floor.

Besides her mother, she is survived by a brother and five sisters, all of this city.

C.U. CLASS PRESENT AT BACCALAUREATE

Rev. Dr. George Johnson Addresses Mass at National Shrine.

"The Catholic school, if nothing else, is a dramatic protest against the principle of State monopoly in education," the Rev. Dr. George Johnson, director of the Department of Education of the National Catholic Welfare Conference, stated at the annual baccalaureate mass of the graduating seniors at Catholic University, celebrated yesterday, in the crypt of the National Shrine of the Immaculate Conception on the campus. More than 3,000 relatives and friends of the members of the 1933 class attended the mass, sung by the Rev. Dr. Frank P. Cassidy, Dean of Men.

In this baccalaureate address, Dr Johnson sought to expound the benefits of Catholic College education and suggested standards upon which a university might be rated. "A school is as good as its graduates," he said, "only in the degree that it educates is a school praiseworthy. The proper and immediate end of Catholic education is to cooperate with divine grace in forming the true and perfect Christian."

Remarking upon the status of religion in the American college system, Dr. Johnson declared, "To my mind, the one particular trait that should distinguish a graduate of the Catholic University of America is love of the church * * * It is easy enough to escape into the reaches of sentimentality and there fashion for oneself a Christ made unto the measure of our own temperament and emotions. It is much more difficult to accept Christ as He is in the church. Youth wants things done in a dramatic manner. Youth is impatient for success and looks askance at failure. Youth is tempted to judge by immediate results."

In conclusion, Dr. Johnson said, "Love of the church—this quality in her undergraduates is the final guarantee of the future of the Catholic University of America."

The members of the senior class will attend a mass celebration in their honor today in Gibbons Hall chapel by the Rev. Alphonse Preshill, O. S. B., at which the Rev. Dr. Edward Fitzgerald, university chaplain, will make his final admonitions to the graduates at their last religious function at the university. Commencement exercises will be held Wednesday at 11 a. m. The honorary degree of doctor of laws will be conferred upon President Roosevelt by the chancellor of the university, the Most Rev. Michael J. Curley, Archbishop of Baltimore.

Philosophical Inquiry Society Plans Meeting

The Society for Philosophical Inquiry will hold its annual commemorative meeting at 4:45 p. m. tomorrow at the National Museum.

The topic of discussion will be Baruch Spinoza. Dr. W. T. Shepherd, Dr. Matalee T. Lake and Prof. Edward E. Richardson will address the meeting.

MEMORIAL HONORS DECEASED POLICE

Brown, 2 Representatives and Pastor Speak at Services.

"Well done, thou good and faithful servant!"

With this simple phrase, Superintendent of Police Ernest W. Brown last night at the annual memorial services of the Washington Policemen's Association, paid fitting tribute to the departed members of the force.

Heads bowed and silent, men of the department, mothers, wives and widows sat quietly in the spacious auditorium at Roosevelt High School through the beautiful and simple service dedicated to their comrades, sons and husbands who have answered the last roll call.

"Not by words alone should we perpetuate the memory of our departed friends," Maj. Brown said, "but let us also reflect our feelings in our deeds and work, so that when we are gone it may be said of us also, 'Well done, comrade.'"

The services were called to order by Capt. Milton D. Smith, chairman of the memorial committee, who introduced the speakers.

Sergt. John E. Fondahl, president of the Policemen's Association, spoke briefly of the departed officers, paying the tribute of the association to the dead and extending condolences to their families.

Representative Virginia Jenckes, of Indiana, spoke of "the women who stay at home and watch their men go forth each day to provide for our safety. To those women I pay my first tribute," she said.

The sympathy of the organized citizens of the District was extended to the association by James G. Yaden, president of the Federation of Citizens Associations. "Your problems are our chief concern," he said. "And when it comes to tribute, let it be given the living as well as the dead."

Representative Magnus Johnson, of Minnesota, spoke of his contact with the men of the police force, and pleaded for all men to do their duty toward lessening crime and suffering in the world.

"Our tribute to the policemen, living and dead, should be a duty," the Rev. Joseph V. Buckley, pastor of St. Francis Xavier's Church, declared, "for they are safeguarding the liberty for which our forefathers fought and bled and died."

The program was interspersed with selections by the Washington Gas Light Co. Band, under the direction of Otto Siebeneichen, and vocal solos by Miss Dorothy Reddish.

The departed officers thus honored were Sergts. Thomas L. McNamara and Ertis W. Reed, and Privates Robert L. Coffren, Leonard E. Draeger, Harold F. Mulvanity, James W. Casey, Herbert M. Smith, Lauritz Christensen, Lewis Hale, Thomas J. Ryan and George W. Schinault.

With last calling of the roll, a final tribute to the men floated through the auditorium on the silvery notes of the association's bugler—"Taps."

FOREST WORKERS TO GET PAY RAISE FOR COMPETENCE

$36 to $45 Rate Pledged for Efficiency; Bonus Veterans' Quota Set.

Competence among members of the Civilian Conservation Corps will be rewarded by increases in wages, it was announced yesterday by Robert Fechner, director of the emergency corporation work. The increase scale will become effective July 1.

Thirteen per cent of the forest workers will be eligible for the wage increase. The fixed cash allowance of $30 may be raised to $45 a month for 5 per cent of the workers, and 8 per cent may receive $36. The raises will be apportioned to each company of the civilian corps.

Approved by President.

The plan has the approval of President Roosevelt, Mr. Fechner stated. In conjunction with the competence records, a penalty system also was announced. Admonition, suspension of privileges, substitution of specific for general duties, and a deduction of not more than three days' cash allowance for minor offenses will be meted out.

The new measures are expected to improve both the morale and the order in the camps.

Enrollment of Washington's quota of 100 World War veterans in the corps will start June 26, with completion expected by June 30, under plans made by regional officials of the Veterans' Administration, which has designated concentration points in the District and Maryland.

Enrollment Place Listed.

The local quota will be enrolled at the Army recruiting office, 520 Tenth street northwest, and those accepted will be taken to Fort Meade, Md., for conditioning.

Bonus veterans who were enrolled in the corps when their encampment at Fort Hunt was disbanded will be sent to work along the Winooski River in Vermont, the War Department advised the Third Corps Area headquarters yesterday.

The veterans are now in conditioning camps at Fort Humphreys and Langley Field, Va.

Capital Couple Hurt In Automobile Crash

Mr. and Mrs. F. L. Cox, of Washington, were injured yesterday in an automobile accident near Charlottesville, N. C., according to an Associated Press dispatch.

The couple were hurt when their machine skidded on the wet pavement and overturned. Their injuries are not believed to be serious.
